Rostow Outlines Mid-East Ideas

MIDDLEBURY, Vt. (AP) — Presidential assistant Walt W. Rostow said today the way to achieve "dignity and stability" in the postwar Middle East is through a plan of regional cooperation similar to that which helped Europe after World War II.

He discussed what the Johnson administration may have in mind for the Middle East, which he said is "only now, hopefully emerging from a brief but violent conflict."

Rostow's address was prepared for delivery at the 167th commencement of Middlebury College.

"We would hope that out of the frustrations and tragedies of postwar Middle East history we might see emerge a new desire to achieve dignity and stability for all through regional cooperation," he said.

"I am sure we and others outside the region will be prepared to be helpful if the peoples and governments of that area themselves decide that this is the right road and begin to move in on their own ways along the path already taken by Western Europe, Latin America and Asia."

"Under President Johnson," said Rostow, "one of the most important, if unnoticed transitions of thought in the world community" is "that we are now actively supporting the building of regional institutions and regional cooperation in Latin America, Asia and Africa, as well as in Europe."

"We are doing this, because despite the continuing power of nationalism, men and governments in those regions are becoming seized with the same kind of thoughts that gripped Western Europe in the late 1940s and early 1950s."

Rostow said Asia has provided "the most dramatic emergence of a new regional spirit and policy."

He said "that future hinges on a conviction that we are serious" about seeing the war through in Vietnam.

The one region in the non-Communist world where "regional institutions and spirit have not yet begun to emerge," Rostow said, "is, of course, the Middle East."

During the postwar generation, he said, that region has been bedeviled by multiple splits and quarrels between Arab states and Israel and Arab and Moslem states.

Tampa Negroes Burn City Block

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — More than 400 occupants of Negro slums rioted early today, exchanged gunfire with police, and burned an entire block of white-owned stores in the central Negro district.

The battle, triggered when a policeman shot and killed a young Negro burglary suspect, broke out about 11 p. m. and raged in full force for two and one-half hours. It continued sporadically through the night in two areas.

By daybreak the shooting had ceased and the flames had been extinguished. Smoke from the fire-gutted buildings curled over a dingy area of bars, liquor stores, pool halls and one-story business houses.

A deputy sheriff died of an apparent heart attack during the wild melee. At least a dozen persons, including 10 whites, were injured.

Gov. Claude Kirk, roused from sleep, rushed to the Florida west coast city on Tampa Bay in a jet plane, surveyed the riot scene and met with police, National Guard officers and Negro leaders.

When daylight arrived at the Tampa battle scenes, police sealed off an area seven by six blocks in dimension.

Deputy Chief A.H. Wainwright said the riot erupted in the middle of a muggy night at Nebraska Ave. and Twigg St. when Martin Chambers, 19, was shot and killed as he ran from Patrolman James R. Calvert.

Police refused to allow Calvert to make a statement until the outcome of "a full investigation."

Sheriff Malcolm Beard vowed to "use whatever force necessary" to prevent a second night of rioting. He said law officers would disperse any group of more than three persons in the district and would arrest anyone who refused the order to move on.

During the height of the rioting a mile-square section of Tampa was a no-man's land. Snipers shot at police and firemen with ammunition looted from a gun store in the area.

Other Negroes hurled rocks at riot police who were illuminated by fires which left the area "bright as day."

Deputy Fire Chief Charles Wells said none of his men was injured. He said more than 100 firefighters were used to control the flames which caused an es-

Commissioners Reject All Repair Bids

Contract To Sandblast Courthouse and Jail To Be Readvertised

Pickaway County Commissioners Monday by a 2-1 vote, rejected all bids submitted for sandblasting, masonry and window repair of the courthouse and jail.

The commission will re-advertise for bids. Commissioner Wayne Hines, who favored awarding the contract to the second low bidder, was the lone dissenter.

Commissioners Charles Morris and Lloyd Melvin voted to re-advertise for bids.

The bids submitted by five firms were opened last week.

THE LOW bid was submitted by Phillips and Lee and was for the amount of $12,900. However, a representative of the firm told commissioners it did not include estimates of work on the jail or of painting and repair of windows.

Last week County Prosecutor Robert Huffer voiced the opinion that in spite of the fact it did not include all work as specified in the legal advertisement seeking bids, the Phillips and Lee bid was legal.

The next low bid was $22,650, submitted by General Maintenance. Other bids were $23,991, submitted by Meglene Masonry Co.; $37,881, submitted by Werner Maintenance Inc.; $75,790, submitted by Edward A. Charbetz Co.

timated $250,000 in damages to two homes, two warehouses and two shopping complexes.

Police said a white man was severely beaten after he and his wife were pulled from their car as they drove through the riot area.

Heavy firing was heard in the area until about 1:30 a.m. when squads of riot police marched through the streets accompanied by about a dozen police dogs.

An officer in a cruising squad car blared through his loud speaker system:

"Get off the streets or we'll move you. If you are holding a weapon you will be shot."

The slum area was lighted only by the flames after the power company turned off electricity to prevent spread of fire. (Continued on Page 2)

Carmichael Arrest Starts Gun Battle

PRATTVILLE, Ala. (AP) — The arrest of Stokely Carmichael, black power advocate, touched off a gun battle Sunday between police and Negroes. National Guardsmen moved in early today with orders to shoot to kill if necessary to restore order.

The guardsmen and police raided a house involved in the gunfire and removed some 30 Negroes and a double-barreled shotgun. Several rounds of ammunition were found in a car parked outside, Sheriff Phillip Wood said.

Wood said today 10 persons were arrested at a concrete-block house and were charged with inciting to riot. He said most gave out-of-town addresses and "many said they were with the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee."

Police said Negroes barricaded inside the house had exchanged shots with city, county and state officers during the night while other shots were fired from a nearby wooded area.

The gun battle left three law enforcement officers injured slightly. Wood said a prison trusty handling dogs also was wounded slightly in the violence which came after Carmichael was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge.

Police Chief Obie Thompson said Carmichael threatened to kill one officer and told police he would "tear up this town."

Carmichael was in the county jail a mile away while the gun battle raged.

Israel To Keep New Territories

UN Shows It Can Still Be of Use

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In providing the machinery to halt the Middle East war, the United Nations demonstrated once more that despite its flaws it can be useful now and then in putting out a fire.

This was the third time the United Nations had a hand in ending a major conflict in the Middle East. In 1949 it helped work out an armistice when the Israelis and the Arabs clashed over the Palestine partition plan. In 1956, it stepped in to help halt the Suez fighting.

In the two earlier conflicts, as in last week's six-day war, the U.N. role was to provide a face-saving out to the vanquished and to exert pressure on the victors by voting cease-fire demands.

But a cease-fire will not work unless one or more of the belligerents has had enough of the fighting. As long as both sides still hope for victory, their supporters in the Security Council will oppose a cease-fire or stall.

That is what happened in last week's council debate until the Arabs started losing. The Soviet Union and other Arab supporters held out for Israeli withdrawal to positions held June 4, the day before the fighting began. This delayed the first cease-fire vote for two days.

It turned out to be convenient also, when Israel and Syria clashed, that the United Nations had a true supervision team on hand to move in quickly and station observers on both sides of the line to help implement the cease-fire.

But long before the cease-fires finally brought the fighting to an end, criticism of the United Nations was heard in many quarters. Some was justified, while other critics seemed to be frustrated because the United Nations did not have the powers of a world government to impose its decisions on its member countries.

The council debates gave the public an impression of endless bickering, irrelevant polemics and paralysis. But in a conflict that threatened to escalate into a third world war, a week is not considered by diplomats to be unreasonably long for debate and negotiations to produce results. Most U.N. diplomats were pleased by the outcome of their efforts.

Paul H. Nitze LBJ Choice To Fill Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of the Navy Paul H. Nitze is President Johnson's announced choice for deputy secretary of defense to succeed the resigning Cyrus R. Vance.

The new secretary of the Navy—making the same job shift Nitze did 3½ years ago—will be John T. McNaughton, now assistant secretary of defense for international security affairs. Paul C. Warnke, now the Defense Department's general counsel, will succeed McNaughton.

President Johnson announced the shifts Saturday night in what is not indicated as any policy change.

The White House said Vance, 50, was resigning effective June 30 for personal reasons. He has been bothered by back trouble.

Nitze, 60, joined the Defense Department as an assistant secretary with the inauguration of President John F. Kennedy. He had served in the State Department during most of the Truman administration.

Kennedy named him Navy secretary in October 1963 but a battle in the Senate Armed Services Committee over the nomination delayed committee approval of Nitze until the day before the assassination of Kennedy.

The Senate subsequently confirmed him and he was sworn in Nov. 29, 1963.

The confirmation battle had swirled around military proposals which Nitze raised at a 1960 seminar but which he testified he never advocated. He said he had labeled such ideas as turning the Strategic Air Command over to the United Nations, as part of a "grand fallacy" of alternatives to adequate military power.

The committee approved Nitze as Navy secretary 11 to 3 and the Senate okayed him in a voice vote.

Nitze, a slim, silver-haired graduate of Harvard, was a Wall Street banker for most of the years from 1928 until he left in 1940 to assist Undersecretary of the Navy James V. Forrestal. He held a variety of wartime government jobs before joining the State Department in 1946.

McNaughton, 46, rose to the Navy rank of lieutenant during World War II and won a Harvard law degree in 1948. He was variously a Rhodes scholar, government attorney, columnist and editor for the Pekin (Ill.) Daily Times and a Harvard law professor before he joined the Defense Department in 1961.

Warnke, 47, was a Washington lawyer before he joined the Pentagon last October.

First Israeli Ship Enters Gulf of Aqaba

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel has denied Syrian charges that its tanks invaded deeper into Syria after a cease-fire but says it intends to keep some of the land it won from Syria, Egypt and Jordan in the six-day Middle East war.

Cheering crowds in the Israeli port of Elath Sunday night greeted the first Israeli freighter to enter the Gulf of Aqaba since Egypt's proclaimed blockade of the gulf led the Middle East to the brink of war.

The Jewish nation had assured reopening of the gulf by capturing Sharm el Sheikh, from which Egyptian guns overlooked the gulf entrance at the Strait of Tiran.

An Israeli army spokesman said the war against the Arabs killed 679 Israeli soldiers and wounded 2,563. Jordan has announced that 15,000 Jordanians were killed. Egypt and Syria have not announced any casualty figures.

Estimates of the number of prisoners taken by Israel, mostly Egyptian, range from 13,000 to 15,000. They still are being counted.

The U.N. Security Council, meeting past 2:30 a.m. for the second straight day, adopted a new resolution demanding that Israel and Syria avoid any forward movement of troops and withdraw any units that have crossed cease-fire lines established Saturday.

Syria said Israel moved armored units forward Sunday. Israel said its tank movements were entirely behind the cease-fire lines. U.N. truce observers confirmed movement of tanks in the area.

Israeli troops now occupy Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, the biblical cities in Jordan west of the Jordan River and a 25-mile Syrian front which extends as deep as 15 miles into Syrian territory. Foreign Minister Abba Eban told a public meeting Sunday night that Israel would not return to the armistice lines of 1949. For the first time, he said, Israel's Galilee settlements were out of danger from Syrian guns on high ground overlooking them.

Former Premier David Ben-Gurion urged the Jews to resettle the Old City of Jerusalem immediately as well as some other communities captured from Jordan.

Diplomats at the United Nations said they expect the Soviet Union to step up its diplomatic drive to force Israel to pull out of Arab territory. There was no indication what the United States would do. But there was considerable belief that since the Russians did nothing but talk while the fighting was going on, they were not likely to do any more now.

There was speculation in Beirut that a power struggle might be going on in Syria's coup-prone Socialist government.

King Hussein of Jordan appealed for calm and order and a return to normal daily routine, adding: "The setback we have suffered has increased our desire for revenge but we have urgent tasks before us."

5 Boys Burned In Explosion

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Five Jefferson County boys—four of them brothers—were burned in an explosion at an oil well near here Sunday.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said the blast was caused by a fire in a large oil drum near the well on Lee Ridge northwest of Steubenville.

Stephen Smith, 9, of Route 1, Steubenville, was reported in critical condition Sunday night at Ohio Valley Hospital.

His brothers, Kevin, 12, Douglas, 10, and Michael, 8, were listed in fair condition.

The fifth boy—Russell Daugherty, 10—was reported in good condition.

Americans Not About To Stop Drinking

Nation's Liquor Habits Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consultant to the President's crime commission suggested today even moderate drinkers might turn to potent drugs if sources of alcoholic beverages were shut off.

Richard A. Blum explained that most Americans are not about to stop drinking since it "gives more pleasure than pain and ordinarily does not lead to trouble."

And problem drinkers, "without anything else but alcohol as a focus of life or source of pleasure or tranquillization, may well ask us what we have that is better than their spirituous familiarity," he said.

Blum, a research director at Stanford University's Institute for the Study of Human Problems in California, made the comments in a report to the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

In a telephone interview, he added that because nearly all human cultures use drugs—and he considers alcohol a drug—"there's a reasonable guess that if we went back to prohibition, we would, of course, try to find other drugs that were acceptable and use them."

"We're so heavily committed to drug use that it would be inconceivable that we could reduce the use of drugs," Blum said.

Blum's report was one of nine on drunkenness prepared by consultants to the crime commission. The papers made public today comprised the sixth of the panel's nine specialized reports to be published. All were summarized in the commission's report issued last February.

Aside from the consultant's papers, the report contained only the same chapter on drunkenness, with the addition of footnotes, that appeared in the February report.

The commission, noting that the two million persons arrested yearly for drunkenness comprise a third of all arrests, recommended that drunkenness no longer be considered a crime and that drunks not be considered criminals.

But it said "disorderly and other criminal conduct accompanied by drunkenness should remain punishable as separate crimes."

To curb the problem of drunken derelicts—the unemployed homeless men who inhabit the nation's skid rows—the commission suggested the organization of detoxification centers to which alcoholics may be taken voluntarily.

One model cited by a commission consultant is the Vera Institute's Bowery Project in New York, expected to become a fully operational program in October at an estimated yearly cost of $350,000.

Vera is setting up a 50-bed facility on the Bowery with a detoxification center operated by St. Vincent's Hospital. Drunks will be approached by roving teams of civilians—accompanied by plainclothes police—and asked whether they wish to go to the center.

Those who refuse would be left alone. Those who accept would remain at the center up to four days or hospitalized if they are seriously ill. After they are dried out they would be sent to one of several rehabilitation centers. (Continued on Page 12)

An Israeli army spokesman said the war against the Arabs killed 679 Israeli soldiers and wounded 2,563. Jordan has announced that 15,000 Jordanians were killed. Egypt and Syria have not announced any casualty figures.

Estimates of the number of prisoners taken by Israel, mostly Egyptian, range from 13,000 to 15,000. They still are being counted.

The U.N. Security Council, meeting past 2:30 a. m. for the second straight day, adopted a new resolution demanding that Israel and Syria avoid any forward movement of troops and withdraw any units that have crossed cease-fire lines established Saturday.

Syria said Israel moved armored units forward Sunday. Israel said its tank movements were entirely behind the cease-fire lines. U.N. truce observers confirmed movement of tanks in the area.

Israeli troops now occupy Egypt's Sinai Peninsula, the biblical cities in Jordan west of the Jordan River and a 25-mile Syrian front which extends as deep as 15 miles into Syrian territory. Foreign Minister Abba Eban told a public meeting Sunday night that Israel would not return to the armistice lines of 1949. For the first time, he said, Israel's Galilee settlements were out of danger from Syrian guns on high ground overlooking them.

Former Premier David Ben-Gurion urged the Jews to settle the Old City of Jerusalem immediately as well as some other communities captured from Jordan.

Diplomats at the United Nations said they expect the Soviet Union to step up its diplomatic drive to force Israel to pull out of Arab territory. There was no indication what the United States would do. But there was considerable belief that since the Russians did nothing but talk while the fighting was going on, they were not likely to do any more now.

There was speculation in Beirut that a power struggle might be going on in Syria's coup-prone Socialist government.

King Hussein of Jordan appealed for calm and order and a return to normal daily routine, adding: "The setback we have suffered has increased our desire for revenge but we have urgent tasks before us."

5 Boys Burned In Explosion

STUEBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Five Jefferson County boys—four of them brothers—were burned in an explosion at an oil well near here Sunday.

The Ohio Highway Patrol said the blast was caused by a fire in a large oil drum near the well on Lee Ridge northwest of Steubenville.

Stephen Smith, 9, of Route 1, Steubenville, was reported in critical condition Sunday night at Ohio Valley Hospital. His brothers, Kevin, 12, Douglas, 10, and Michael, 8, were listed in fair condition.

The fifth boy—Russell Daugherty, 10—was reported in good condition.

Americans Not About To Stop Drinking

Nation's Liquor Habits Studied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A consultant to the President's crime commission suggested today even moderate drinkers might turn to potent drugs if sources of alcoholic beverages were shut off.

Richard A. Blum explained that most Americans are not about to stop drinking since it "gives more pleasure than pain and ordinarily does not lead to trouble."

And problem drinkers, "without anything else but alcohol as a focus of life or source of pleasure or tranquillization, may well ask us what we have that is better than their spirituous familiarity," he said.

Blum, a research director at Stanford University's Institute for the Study of Human Problems in California, made the comments in a report to the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice.

In a telephone interview, he added that because nearly all human cultures use drugs—and he considers alcohol a drug—"there's a reasonable guess that if we went back to prohibition, we would, of course, try to find other drugs that were acceptable and use them."

"We're so heavily committed to drug use that it would be inconceivable that we could reduce the use of drugs," Blum said.

Blum's report was one of nine on drunkenness prepared by consultants to the crime commission. The papers made public today comprised the sixth of the panel's nine specialized reports to be published. All were summarized in the commission's report issued last February.

Aside from the consultant's

papers, the report contained only the same chapter on drunkenness, with the addition of footnotes, that appeared in the February report.

The commission, noting that the two million persons arrested yearly for drunkenness comprise a third of all arrests, recommended that drunkenness no longer be considered a crime and that drunks not be considered criminals.

But it said "disorderly and other criminal conduct accompanied by drunkenness should remain punishable as separate crimes."

One model cited by a commission consultant is the Vera Institute's Bowery Project in New York, expected to become a fully operational program in October at an estimated yearly cost of $350,000.

Vera is setting up a 50-bed facility on the Bowery with a detoxification center operated by St. Vincent's Hospital. Drunks will be approached by roving teams of civilians—accompanied by plainclothes police—and asked whether they wish to go to the center.

Those who refuse would be left alone. Those who accept would remain at the center up to four days or hospitalized if they are seriously ill. After they are dried out they would be sent to one of several rehabilitation centers.

Search for 3 Boys Is Ended Sunday

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP)—The search for three boys missing in Hannibal since May 10 apparently ended Sunday after the boys' parents said they were convinced the youths were not in Murphy's Cave.
Rescue workers dug through a recently discovered second level in the cave over the weekend and found no clues in the search for Billy, 11, and Joel Hoag, 13, and Edwin Craig Dowell, 14. The boys were last seen in the area of the cave.

Youth Injured When Auto Falls

Dorsey Bias, 16, Columbus, was slightly injured Sunday afternoon when a car he was working on fell on his chest.
Three witnesses stated that young Bias was working under the car when a jack under the left rear bumper shifted and caused the car to fall.
The accident occurred at the home of Phillip Jones, 478 Dearborn Ave.
Bias was taken to Dr. Manuel Sanguly for treatment. He was later released.

Windows Are Broken

Officials of the Norfolk and Western Freight Station, Western Ave., reported to Circleville Police this morning that during the night someone had thrown rocks at the building and had broken nine windows.

plant and set fire to the British Bank of the Middle East in Dubai, the business center of the Persian Gulf sheikhdoms. The British Embassy in Beirut and a British bank official said they had no reports of trouble in Dubai.
In Jerusalem, though, there were signs of willingness by much of the Arab population to cooperate. Unarmed Jordanian police went on their rounds accompanied by armed Israeli constables. Israeli officials began work on restoring essential services and food distribution was reported well organized.
The U.S. communications ship Liberty, crippled by Israeli aircraft and torpedo boats in what Israel called an accidental attack, limped toward the island of Malta with the bodies of 21 crewmen still trapped in flooded lower compartments. The bodies of nine other Navy men were en route to the United States.

Tampa

For several hours, the rioting was held to a 10-by-6 block area in a slum section called Central Village. After midnight the battle spread to the west Negro district.
"They're shooting here," radioed an officer who was sent to investigate a jangling burglar alarm. Three cars were sent to aid the lone policeman. The owner of the store reportedly declined to come into the neighborhood to shut off the alarm.
James Hammond, a Negro, administrator of the Tampa Commission on Community Relations, said the trouble apparently was triggered when the Negro burglary suspect "was shot in the back."
He said most of the rioters were under 20.
Hammond said that in an area on Central Avenue, between Cass and Scott streets, where the looting and torching occurred, every store burned was owned or operated by whites.

Weekend Toll In Ohio Is 20

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In all of last year the little Toledo suburb of Oregon recorded six traffic deaths.
Now the community has equaled that record in a weekend.
Six persons died in traffic accidents in Oregon over the weekend, contributing to a statewide death toll of at least 20 for the 6 p.m. Friday-Sunday midnight period.
The Ohio Highway Patrol Monday said one of the fatalities included a 12-year-old Fayette County boy who was killed Saturday when the tractor he was operating on a county road overturned and plowed him beneath it.
The patrol said it was a traffic death since it occurred on a public road.
The death toll was well below the 35 that died during the lengthy Memorial day weekend, but well above the 13 recorded the weekend of June 9.
Among latest fatalities:
Saturday
William Louis Campbell, 12, Rt. 6, Washington Court House, when the tractor he was operating on a county road overturned, pinning him beneath it.
Julia Anderson, 13, Churubusco, Ind., in a one-car accident near Van Wert.
Wesley Kuhn, 20, Rt. 7, Chillicothe, in a one-car accident on a rural road near Chillicothe.
Pamela Wilson, 17, Xenia, passenger in a car which went off a rural road in Clinton County and overturned.
Helen C. Linn, 45, Lima, in a two-car collision on Ohio 117 in Allen County.

Driver Cited For 3 Traffic Violations

Robert H. Walsh, 24, of 213 1/2 W. Ohio St. was cited into Circleville Municipal Court today by City Police on three traffic violations.
Walsh was cited for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants and received a stiff fine of $150 and costs, 30 days in the County Jail by Muni Court Judge Sterling M. Lamb.
The second citation against Walsh of operating a motor vehicle with no valid operator's license yielded him a further penalty of $100 and costs, 30 days in the County Jail. Judge Lamb, however, suspended $50 of the fine and placed him under probation for three years.
The third violation, leaving the scene of an accident, to which Walsh pleaded guilty, brought a penalty of $150 and costs and 30 days in the County Jail.
Albert Cain, 29, of West Palm Beach, Fla., was cited into court on the charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was handed a fine of $150 and costs, three days in the County Jail and suffered the further penalty of having his operator's license suspended for six months.
Eugene E. Downs, 31, Richmondale, was cited for two violations. Cited for failure to observe a traffic signal, Downs was handed a fine of $50 and costs. For the second citation, failure to comply with the orders of a police officer he was handed a fine of $50 and costs.
Two local men, John Young, of 159 Logan St. and Glenn Edwards of 215 W. Mount St., were both cited for tampering with a truck after sustaining damage to the truck and some fence on a county road. Judge Lamb handed down a disposition of $150 and costs, 30 days in the County Jail with an added one year probation. The Judge, however, suspended $50 of the fine on each man and suspended 27 days of the jail sentence.
Clarence Weaver, 59, Chillicothe was cited for an unsafe auto by the Ohio State Highway Patrol and was handed a fine of $25 and costs with $15 of the fine suspended.
Lavonne D. Spradlin, 30, Derby, was cited for failure to yield the right of way and was fined $25 and costs.
Margaret F. McNamee, 51, Groveport was cited for failure to observe a stop sign and was handed a fine of $15 and costs.

Hearings Set For Juveniles

M. F. Dern, juvenile probation officer for Pickaway County, reported a total of 23 cases are slated for hearings this week with the bulk of cases to be handled on Friday.
Common Pleas Court Judge William Ammer has been filling in for Juvenile Court Judge Guy Cline, who is on vacation and is scheduled to return the middle of next week.
Some of the juvenile cases slated for hearings are for delinquency, one for traffic and manslaughter, theft and a contributing charge is due to be aired on Saturday.

Logan Elm Music Teacher Hired at PVHS

Robert A. Petty the former music director of Logan Elm High School, his wife Sandra, and his two daughters, Tami and Trisha, will be moving to Columbus the first of August where Mr. Petty will assume a new position as the director of choral performing groups at Pleasant View High School.
Petty's agenda will include the teaching of music theory and the directing of the Symphonic choir, the Concert choir, the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, the Boys' and Girls' Ensembles, and the Mixed Ensemble.
Pleasant View High School has an enrollment of over 1,000 students, grades ten through twelve, which places it in the A-1 festival competition class. The high school is located five miles west of Grove City and 7 1/2 miles south of Lincoln Village.
During Petty's past years at Logan Elm, the choir has received a number "I", superior, rating at both District and State contests three out of four years, and both the Girls' and Boys' Ensembles have always received superior ratings.
Being chosen the director of the all Ohio FFA Boys' Band and a member of the Choral Affairs Committee, which select choral contest numbers for the school year of 1967-68, are among Petty's other achievements.

Accident Causes Slight Injury

Circleville Police were called to investigate an auto accident that resulted in one injury Saturday morning.
Evert Martin stated to city patrolmen that he had stopped for the stop sign at the corner of Washington and Watt Sts. When he proceeded into the intersection he was struck in the side by a car driven by Zolbie G. Harper, Williamsport, officers said.
Flora Harper, a passenger in the car which struck Martin's auto, received minor injuries to the head and was referred to her family doctor.
The officer's report stated that the Martin car spun around and slid approximately 50 feet after impact.
Martin was cited by police for failure to yield the right of way.

Search for 3 Boys Is Ended Sunday

HANNIBAL, Mo. (AP) — The search for three boys missing in Hannibal since May 10 apparently ended Sunday after the boys' parents said they were convinced the youths were not in Murphy's Cave.

Rescue workers dug through a recently discovered second level in the cave over the weekend and found no clues in the search for Billy, 11, and Joel Hoag, 13, and Edwin Craig Dowell, 14. The boys were last seen in the area of the cave.

Youth Injured When Auto Falls

Dorsey Bias, 16, Columbus, was slightly injured Sunday afternoon when a car he was working on fell on his chest.

Three witnesses stated that young Bias was working under the car when a jack under the left rear bumper shifted and caused the car to fall.

The accident occurred at the home of Phillip Jones, 478 Dearborn Ave.

Bias was taken to Dr. Manuel Sanguily for treatment. He was later released.

Windows Are Broken

Officials of the Norfolk and Western Freight Station, Western Ave., reported to Circleville Police this morning that during the night someone had thrown rocks at the building and had broken nine windows.

The Otis brothers installed the first electric elevator in New York's Demarest Building in 1889.

For several hours, the rioting was held to a 10-by-6 block area in a slum section called Central Village. After midnight the battle spread to the west Negro district.

"They're shooting here," radioed an officer who was sent to investigate a jangling burglar alarm. Three cars were sent to aid the lone policeman. The owner of the store reportedly declined to come into the neighborhood to shut off the alarm.

James Hammond, a Negro, administrator of the Tampa Commission on Community Relations, said the trouble apparently was triggered when the Negro burglar suspect "was shot in the back."

He said most of the rioters were under 20. Hammond said that in an area on Central Avenue, between Cass and Scott streets, where the looting and torching occurred, every store burned was owned or operated by whites.

Weekend Toll In Ohio Is 20

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In all of last year the little Toledo suburb of Oregon recorded six traffic deaths.

Now the community has equaled that record in a week-end.

Six persons died in traffic accidents in Oregon over the weekend, contributing to a state wide death toll of at least 20 for the 6 p.m. Friday-Sunday midnight period.

The Ohio Highway Patrol Monday said one of the fatalities included a 12-year-old Fayette County boy who was killed Saturday when the tractor he was operating on a county road overturned and pinned him beneath it.

The patrol said it was a traffic death since it occurred on a public road.

The death toll was well below the 35 that died during the lengthy Memorial day week-end, but well above the 13 recorded the weekend of June 9.

Among latest fatalities:
Saturday

William Louis Campbell, 12, Rt. 6, Washington Court House, when the tractor he was operating on a county road overturned, pinning him beneath it.

Julia Anderson, 18, Churubusco, Ind., in a one-car accident near Van Wert.

Wesley Kuhn, 20, Rt. 7, Chillicothe, in a one-car accident on a rural road near Chillicothe.

Pamela Wilson, 17, Xenia, passenger in a car which went off a rural road in Clinton County and overturned.

Helen C. Linn, 45, Lima, in a two-car collision on Ohio 117 in Allen County.

ROBERT PETTY

Logan Elm Music Teacher Hired at PVHS

Robert A. Petty, the former music director of Logan Elm High School, his wife Sandra, and his two daughters, Tami and Trisha, will be moving to Columbus the first of August where Mr. Petty will assume a new position as the director of choral performing groups at Pleasant View High School.

Petty's agenda will include the teaching of music theory and the directing of the Symphonic choir, the Concert choir, the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, the Boys' and Girls' Ensembles, and the Mixed Ensemble.

Pleasant View High School has an enrollment of over 1,000 students, grades ten through twelve, which places it in the A-1 festival competition class. The high school is located five miles west of Grove City and 7 1/2 miles south of Lincoln Village.

During Petty's past years at Logan Elm, the choir has received a number "1", superior, rating at both District and State contests three out of four years, and both the Girls' and Boys' Ensembles have always received superior ratings.

Being chosen the director of the all Ohio FFA Boys' Band and a member of the Choral Affairs Committee, which select choral contest numbers for the school year of 1967-68, are among Petty's other achievements.

Miss Kathy Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lyons, was married Saturday evening in the Methodist Church to Mr. Thomas Liston, son of Mrs. Lucille Senff. Miss Lyons has been the kindergarten teacher the past year.

Several parties have been given for her the past week. On Wednesday of last week, Mrs. Edgar Stoneburner entertained the elementary teachers, the lunch room helpers, and other helpers to a buffet tea at her home.

Present were Mrs. Jack Reisinger, Mrs. Pat Lovensheimer, Mrs. Irene Brooks, Mrs. Dorothy Jackson, Mrs. Alcorn, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Spangler, Mrs. Zeigler, Mrs. Harvey Large, Mrs. Charles French, Mrs. Carl Phillips.

Winners in the contests were Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Lovensheimer.

Mrs. Tom Congrove, assisted by Mrs. Thoburn Orr, gave a shower Friday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church with the kindergarten pupils as guests. Cookies and punch were served, with Tommy Congrove as host.

Mrs. Lucille Senff, mother of the groom, will have the rehearsal dinner at her home, Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis were in Cambridge Tuesday night to attend the high school graduation exercises which were held in the football stadium. Ken Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell, was a member of the graduating class. He returned here with Mr. and Mrs. Davis on Wednesday for a visit.

After baccalaureate service at the Zane Trace High School Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lyons entertained with an open house at their home for their daughter, Janet Lyons. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. William Meadows, Mrs. Noah Fellenstein, Mrs. Larry Large, Christy and Mike Fellenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Don Dearth and Debbie, and Robbie Roll, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Whitten, Ricky and Tim, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maxwell and Jimmie, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis and Tom. Refreshments were ice cream, cake, and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Meadows entertained friends Monday evening following commencement exercises at Zane Trace in honor of their son, Robert, who was a member of the class. Mrs. Meadows served a buffet lunch to the members of the class, their escorts, relatives and friends.

Mrs. Francis Kelley presided at the meeting of the Auxiliary to the American Legion which was held at the Legion Home, Tuesday evening. Plans were made for a dinner meeting and installation of officers at the next meeting to be held at the Fox Farm.

Vacation Bible Schools will be held at both the Presbyterian and Methodist churches on the following dates:

Presbyterian Church — June 19 through June 30 from 9 to 11:30 a. m. All children are welcome from five years up. The Vacation Bible School is sponsored by the Christian Education Committee: chairman, Mrs. Gary Walsh, Mrs. E. V. Graves, Mrs. Robert Gearhart, Mrs. Paul Ankrom and the Rev. Wayne Wardwell.

Methodist Church — June 12 through June 24. Children from three years of age to those through sixth grade are eligible.

Teachers will be Mrs. William Streber, Mrs. Harry Bolyard, Mrs. William Coater, Mrs. William J. Adams, Mrs. Don Beavers, Mrs. Ed Flugge and Mrs. Orla Uhrick. Mrs. Eugene Norris is director.

Mrs. Thomas Simon of Largo, Fla., came on Sunday to visit relatives and to attend the commencement exercises of Zane Trace High School of which her niece, Janet Lyons, was a member, and the wedding of another niece, Kathy Lyons, which will take place Saturday evening.

Mrs. Simon was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wallace Evans of Chillicothe, who has been visiting her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Evans Jr., and their family at Zephyr, Fla.

Mrs. Ira Korst of Harbor Hills, sister of Mrs. Simon, is also here for the commencement and wedding festivities.

Thursday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis, Jim and Kristi, were friends from Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Orville Schinke who are on their way to Japan on a military assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sunderland are expecting to attend the graduation exercises at Hamilton Saturday evening, when their granddaughter, Donna Trueman, will graduate from junior high school. On Sunday they will be guests in Dayton, of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Davis.

A goodly number were present Saturday evening at the Couples Club party which was held on the lawn at the rear of the Methodist Church. A wiener roast and carry-in dinner was planned by the committee: Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Minor, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Whitten and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Good. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Charles Rhymer of Circleville, who played folk music on the guitar and harmonica. Russians Appear To Have Outsmarted Themselves

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet Union, in what appeared to be a last-ditch maneuver to salvage something out of the debris of its policy in the Middle East, has taken new steps which can reheat the atmosphere and lead to yet more crisis.

The resignation statement of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and the subsequent statement of a summit meeting of Communist nation chiefs in Moscow show more than a hint that the Russians outsmarted themselves and that they are now desperate to recoup.

Nasser's statement said that at the beginning of May he Russians told an Egyptian delegation in Moscow that Israel was planning to commit an aggression against Arab Syria. Acting on this information, Nasser said, he sent his forces to the border and asked the United Nations to withdraw its troops which sealed off Israel from Egypt. The withdrawal was a major step on the road to the war.

Evidently, Nasser's statement indicates, the Russians then became worried about how far the crisis had progressed. In a crisis short of war Moscow could hope to make big gains in influence in the Middle East to the disadvantage of the West.

But a war was dangerous to Soviet interests. The Kremlin, by all the evidence, was not ready for a new confrontation which could have been even more perilous than the Cuban missile showdown of 1962.

In any event, says Nasser, the Russians came to him May 26 and urged him not to fire the first shot. The war broke out June 5. In four days Israel blitzed her Arab neighbors into submission.

Nasser said he then accepted a cease-fire because of certain assurances implicit in the Soviet attitude at the U.N. Security Council sessions. The implication was that the Soviet Union insist that Israel make no territorial gains from the war.

The Soviet Union, which comes under suspicion of having started the crisis that touched off the war, was as eager as any for a cease-fire when the war began to look dangerous to world peace.

But now Moscow was looking at the wreckage of the Arab cause, and with it the prospect that Moscow's prestige would plummet there, to say nothing of its status inside the revolutionary world of communism.

Hastily, the Kremlin called a summit meeting of Communist bloc leaders to add force and the look of solidarity to what it was about to say.

The Russians, who had not mentioned and obviously had not bought the Arab charge of U.S. and British military air support to Israel during the war, came up with a charge close to it: that Americans had been colluding with Israel against the Arabs.

The Kremlin coupled this with a threat: If Israel did intend to keep any of the territory she conquered, the Soviet Union would be inclined to do something about it.

Moscow demanded that Israel retire to the truce lines, apparently meaning the lines of June 4 before the new war started. If the U.N. Security Council failed to take "proper measures," said Moscow, and if Israel would not withdraw from conquered territory, "the Socialist (Communist) States will do everything necessary to help the peoples of Arab countries administer a resolute rebuff to the aggressor."

This is tough talk. But the Russians had talked tough before in the Security Council, only to back down when the going got rough.

If the Russians were unwilling to risk war, they probably would continue to be unwilling now that a cease-fire has been declared. But they also seem unwilling to stop trying to salvage some of their lost prestige, and that could lead to new tension.

PUTS UP A HOWL—When the phone company wanted to change farmer Louis Newman's eight-party line to a four-party one, Newman, of near Gilman, Ill., said it would be OK if he could keep his special ring of two "shorts" instead of a single one. Newman's dog Foxy ignores all the rings except the two short ones, then he howls until it's answered.

Kingston News Report

By Miss Margaret Thomas
Phone NI 2-3495

Miss Kathy Lyons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lyons, was married Saturday evening in the Methodist Church to Mr. Thomas Liston, son of Mrs. Lucille Senff. Miss Lyons has been the kindergarten teacher the past year.

Several parties have been given for her the past week. On Wednesday of last week, Mrs. Edgar Stoneburner entertained the elementary teachers, the lunch room helpers, and other helpers to a buffet tea at her home.

Present were Mrs. Jack Reisinger, Mrs. Pat Lovensheimer, Mrs. Irene Brooks, Mrs. Dorothy Jackson, Mrs. Alcorn, Mrs. Scott, Mrs. Spangler, Mrs. Zeigler, Mrs. Harvey Large, Mrs. Charles French, Mrs. Carl Phillips.

Winners in the contests were Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Jackson and Mrs. Lovensheimer.

Mrs. Tom Congrove, assisted by Mrs. Thoburn Orr, gave a shower Friday afternoon at the Presbyterian Church with the kindergarten pupils as guests. Cookies and punch were served, with Tommy Congrove as host.

Mrs. Lucille Senff, mother of the groom, will have the rehearsal dinner at her home, Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis were in Cambridge Tuesday night to attend the high school graduation exercises which were held in the football stadium. Ken Russell, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Russell, was a member of the graduating class. He returned here with Mr. and Mrs. Davis on Wednesday for a visit.

After baccalaureate service at the Zane Trace High School Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lyons entertained with an open house at their home for their daughter, Janet Lyons. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. William Meadows, Mrs. Noah Fellenstein, Mrs. Larry Large, Christy and Mike Fellenstein, Mr. and Mrs. Don Dearth and Debbie, and Robbie Roll, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Whitten, Ricky and Tim, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Maxwell and Jimmie, and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Davis and Tom. Refreshments were ice cream, cake, and coffee.

Mr. and Mrs. William Meadows entertained friends Monday evening following commencement exercises at Zane Trace in honor of their son, Robert, who was a member of the class. Mrs. Meadows served a buffet lunch to the members of the class, their escorts, relatives and friends.

Mrs. Francis Kelley presided at the meeting of the Auxiliary to the American Legion which was held at the Legion Home, Tuesday evening. Plans were made for a dinner meeting and installation of officers at the next meeting to be held at the Fox Farm.

Vacation Bible Schools will be held at both the Presbyterian and Methodist churches on the following dates:

Presbyterian Church — June 19 through June 30 from 9 to 11:30 a. m. All children are welcome from five years up. The Vacation Bible School is sponsored by the Christian Education Committee: chairman, Mrs. Gary Walsh, Mrs. E. V. Graves, Mrs. Robert Gearhart, Mrs. Paul Ankrom and the Rev. Wayne Wardwell.

Methodist Church — June 12 through June 24. Children from three years of age to those through sixth grade are eligible. Teachers will be Mrs. William Streber, Mrs. Harry Bolyard, Mrs. William Coater, Mrs. William J. Adams, Mrs. Don Beavers, Mrs. Ed Flugge and Mrs. Orla Uhrick. Mrs. Eugene Norris is director.

Mrs. Thomas Simon of Largo, Fla., came on Sunday to visit relatives and to attend the commencement exercises of Zane Trace High School of which her niece, Janet Lyons, was a member, and the wedding of another niece, Kathy Lyons, which will take place Saturday evening.

Mrs. Simon was accompanied by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wallace Evans of Chillicothe, who has been visiting her son and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Evans Jr., and their family at Zephyr, Fla.

Mrs. Ira Korst of Harbor Hills, sister of Mrs. Simon, is also here for the commencement and wedding festivities.

Thursday night guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis, Jim and Kristi, were friends from Washington, D. C., Mr. and Mrs. Orville Schinke who are on their way to Japan on a military assignment.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Sunderland are expecting to attend the graduation exercises at Hamilton Saturday evening, when their granddaughter, Donna Trueman, will graduate from junior high school. On Sunday they will be guests in Dayton, of their cousins, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Davis.

A goodly number were present Saturday evening at the Couples Club party which was held on the lawn at the rear of the Methodist Church. A wiener roast and carry-in dinner was planned by the committee: Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Minor, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Whitten and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Good. Entertainment was provided by Mrs. Charles Rhymer of Circleville, who played folk music on the guitar and harmonica. Miss Connie Hill showed slides of scenes which she and her family took on a vacation trip to

Russians Appear To Have Outsmarted Themselves

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The Soviet Union, in what appeared to be a last-ditch maneuver to salvage something out of the debris of its policy in the Middle East, has taken new steps which can reheat the atmosphere and lead to yet more crisis.

The resignation statement of President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt and the subsequent statement of a summit meeting of Communist nation chiefs in Moscow show more than a hint that the Russians outsmarted themselves and that they are now desperate to recoup.

Nasser's statement said that at the beginning of May he Russians told an Egyptian delegation in Moscow that Israel was planning to commit an aggression against Arab Syria. Acting on this information, Nasser said, he sent his forces to the border and asked the United Nations to withdraw its troops which sealed off Israel from Egypt. The withdrawal was a major step on the road to the war.

Evidently, Nasser's statement indicates, the Russians then became worried about how far the crisis had progressed. In a crisis short of war Moscow could hope to make big gains in influence in the Middle East to the disadvantage of the West.

But a war was dangerous to Soviet interests. The Kremlin, by all the evidence, was not ready for a new confrontation which could have been even more perilous than the Cuban missile showdown of 1962.

In any event, says Nasser, the Russians came to him May 26 and urged him not to fire the first shot. The war broke out June 5. In four days Israel blitzed her Arab neighbors into submission.

Nasser said he then accepted a cease-fire because of certain assurances implicit in the Soviet attitude at the U.N. Security Council sessions. The implication was that the Soviet Union insist that Israel make no territorial gains from the war.

The Soviet Union, which comes under suspicion of having started the crisis that touched off the war, was as eager as any for a cease-fire when the war began to look dangerous to world peace.

But now Moscow was looking at the wreckage of the Arab cause, and with it the prospect that Moscow's prestige would plummet there, to say nothing of its status inside the revolutionary world of communism.

Hastily, the Kremlin called a summit meeting of Communist bloc leaders to add force and the look of solidarity to what it was about to say.

The Russians, who had not mentioned and obviously had

The June meeting of the club will be in the nature of an ice cream social.

Mrs. George Targee (Rosemary Lyons) arrived Wednesday evening to be here for the wedding of her sister Saturday. Mr. Targee will come Friday. The Targees live in Arvada, Colo.

not bought the Arab charge of U.S. and British military air support to Israel during the war, came up with a charge close to it: that Americans had been colluding with Israel against the Arabs.

The Kremlin coupled this with a threat: If Israel did intend to keep any of the territory she conquered, the Soviet Union would be inclined to do something about it.

Moscow demanded that Israel retire to the truce lines, apparently meaning the lines of June 4 before the new war started. If the U.N. Security Council failed to take "proper measures," said Moscow, and if Israel would not withdraw from conquered territory, "the Socialist (Communist) States will do everything necessary to help the peoples of Arab countries administer a resolute rebuff to the aggressor."

This is tough talk. But the Russians had talked tough before in the Security Council, only to back down when the going got rough.

If the Russians were unwilling to risk war, they probably would continue to be unwilling now that a cease-fire has been declared. But they also seem unwilling to stop trying to salvage some of their lost prestige, and that could lead to new tension.

The Paris Air Show

In the eyes of tourists it probably wasn't competitive with the girls at the Lido, but the 27th Paris air show which ended as the war in the Mid-east began spotlighted solid evidence of growing international competition in aerospace production and marketing.

The United States recovered from its disappointing reception two years ago when the Soviet Union stole the show with a surprise demonstration of its giant Antonov transport. This year more U. S. firms than ever displayed their wares. The United States for the first time had its own pavilion.

The display at historic LeBourget Airport was in reality an aerospace trade show. Participating nations were competing for technological prestige as well as for sales in the world market. It is gratifying therefore that the U. S. exhibit made a strong impression.

Fearful in Strength

Man has been obsessed by fear since the beginning of time. Even in a presumably enlightened age fear motivates the actions of men and nations.

Regardless of whether they are willing to admit it, the peoples of the free world are in great fear of Russia, and have been since the end of World War II. There has been a feeling that eventually a situation will develop that will lead to World War III.

But this is no reason to lose all sense

Story of Two Drop Outs

I've just heard the drop-out story to cap all drop-out stories. It involves a double-barreled narrative, with two happy endings where even one would have been quite remarkable.

Drop-out Number One was a factory worker from Meriden, Connecticut, named Charlie Byron. He had quit high school before graduation, and had puttered along getting nowhere until the U. S. Army grabbed him at the age of 31. Billeted at Torney General Hospital in Palm Springs, California, in 1943, with an uninspiring job as an orderly, Charlie started griping one day about his wasted life to a blind, one-armed and fifty per cent deaf patient named Leonard Shelhamer from North Caldwell, New Jersey. Shelhamer, who had been injured while working as a demolition crew member with the 79th Infantry Division at Camp Laguna, Arizona, when a mine blew up, thought it odd that a man with perfect sight and hearing and two good arms should be quarreling with his fate. "If you think you're bad off," he told Charlie, "what about me? You can read."

The encounter with Shelhamer led to a friendship, and, with some further prodding, Charlie Byron took advantage of his

The Soviet Union, in addition to a line of commercial planes showed its three - stage Vostok rocket and the most complete array of unmanned scientific satellites yet displayed in one place.

The Anglo - French technical alliance in addition to being ahead in supersonic transport development also showed aerospace advances which threaten U. S. domination in the free world market.

In light of the competition it was fortunate a decision had been made to encourage the U. S. aerospace industry to put more effort and products into the show. The intensity of the Soviet effort for example was indicated by the approval by the Kremlin of a Madison Avenue technique. Visitors were handed four-color brochures extolling Soviet wares.

of proportion and surrender the initiative to Russia. Fear has a tendency to invent disaster which, if faced with courage, vanishes in the light of the facts.

The times call for courage, not fear. Fear of the consequences cannot be permitted to determine this country's attitude toward Russia. This nation does not want expanded war, but it must be secure in its own strength, or discover it has no strength.

BLAME Ralph Mayer, of Portland, Oregon, for this one. A traveler in darkest Africa fell grievously ill, and summoned a witch doctor, who examined him carefully, then presented him with a leather thong. "Bite off an inch of this thong every day," he prescribed, "chew it carefully, and at the end of a week you'll be good as new." When he returned a week later, however, the traveler was sicker than ever. The witch doctor demanded, "How come?" The traveler answered weakly, "The thong is ended, but the malady lingers on."

Deep in the Bronx, a bank failed—and its doors were shut to a mob of outraged depositors. One of them mounted a soap box and began screaming, "The electric chair is too good for the crook who runs this bank! They should throw him into Niagara Falls for robbing poor workers of their savings!" A policeman stopped him and asked, "Did you have money in this bank, Brother?" "Listen, officer," replied the orator, "if I had money in this bank, do you think I'd be taking it so lightly?"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is it common for a young woman to feel depressed after the birth of a healthy baby when she loves both the child and her husband very dearly?

It is not unusual for a perfectly healthy young woman to develop a sense of depression after the birth of a child. This may occur even in families with a perfectly normal, healthy and happy relationship with the husband.

There have been many technical and complex psychological explanations for this post-partum feeling of depression. Many schools of psychological thought have their own particular pet reasons for it and often make every case fit in their own category.

Rather than get involved in the validity of one school of thought as against another, there is a more important approach to this problem.

Since it occurs so frequently, families too often adopt the attitude that "this too shall pass." This is a real mistake.

If it passes and the young woman breaks out of the despondent mood than all is well. Fortunately, this happens frequently. On the other hand, if the depression becomes more severe and fixed then the family blames itself, and rightfully, for not having done something immediately.

Depression after the birth of a baby must be considered an unwelcome complication. It is different from any physical problem that might have arisen. With this in mind every woman whose depression and misery is not readily controlled should be given the immediate advantage of a consultation with a psychiatrist or psychologist. The guidance they can offer may be by simply opening a new avenue and lead to the relief of this unpleasant complication at a time of great potential happiness.

It might interest you to know, too, that the new baby benefits when the mother is helped to snap out of her depression. Infants often do not thrive when cared for by mothers who are overwhelmed by their own emotional problems.

When is cortisone used for asthma? Why are so many people afraid of it? Let me first try to explain why so many people are afraid of cortisone and will even refuse to take the drug when it is recommended by their doctor. Many will actually say,

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP)—Admiral Hyman Rickover's attack on modern management's tendency to judge the merits of technological goals in terms of cost rather than effectiveness strikes at the core of a very prevalent problem.

Rickover, who heads the nuclear-powered ship program, told members of Congress that America too often was measuring the worth of goals by a cost-effectiveness ratio. Perhaps, he indicated, effectiveness rather than cost should be the main ingredient of the formula.

Since this criticism was aimed chiefly at the Pentagon's management methods it is going to surprise some congressmen who had been convinced the tradition there was one of overspending rather than of ruthless saving.

More important, it points to a much larger difference of opinion, the difference between the researcher and the manager, the difference between the scientist who is goal-oriented and the manager oriented to costs.

Despite the tremendous outpouring of technology in this country—which points to an effective combination of scientific research and productive management—the men in these two endeavors have never completely trusted each other. Each fears that in strained times the other will revert to type: the manager to saving money, the scientist to plowing ahead with research, however costly.

This is just the situation that exists today in many corporations, foundations and other institutions, as well as at efficiency-minded Robert S. McNamara's Pentagon.

Business has, in fact, made a high art of efficiency in this space-age. Efficiency, itself, is neutral; it can mean higher costs, it can mean lower costs. Frequently, low cost and high quality becomes the goal in various efficiency programs, such as Pride in Excellence—Boeing — and Product Excellence Program—Raytheon.

The possibility always exists in these programs, some critics say, that the efficiencies discovered might go more into cutting costs than in further improving the product. That is what Rickover fears.

The latest Rickover outburst came in testimony before a House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, for which he described a new religion—or "fog bomb," as he also called it—that might be keeping the nation from developing technology that would save lives. That religion, or bomb, is the cost-effectiveness approach to goals.

Cost analyses, Rickover said, cannot take account of human life. It is a limited tool, he said, philosophically weak in that it maintains "the economic is fundamental, that all other factors — the social, cultural and political — are derivative."

Such an approach, Rickover indicated, deprives the nation of technological advances that would accrue if research were less restricted. And, in place of research, the technical man may find himself immersed in administrative and procedural duties to satisfy the cost-efficiency program.

Nevertheless, some blend of cost analysis is necessary in every business. Seldom is research left to pursue its goals unprofitably. And seldom in a well-run business is the accounting department permitted to thwart potentially profitable projects.

Chiropractor

We have received many requests for a repeat of this article written several weeks ago. It concerned severe neck pain, chest and shoulder pains, violent sick headaches, and a feeling of nausea.

The following is just such a case from the files:

A forty-six year old female rushed into a chiropractor's office crying and holding her head exclaiming, "The top of my head is coming off — please do something!"

Emergency treatment was rendered and within a few minutes her head eased for the first time in two weeks.

She had these symptoms, along with neck, shoulder, and arm pains, but nothing seemed to help. And lately, her arm grew numb, and tingled. After an examination and case history, it was revealed, several years ago, she had an auto accident and suffered a whiplash type blow to her cervical spine. X-rays were immediately taken and several displaced vertebrae (subluxations) in her neck and between her shoulders were found. These misaligned vertebrae compressed spinal nerve trunks, causing her miserable pains. After complete correction of the cause, her symptoms vanished.

This woman suffered unnecessary pain for years because she neglected a chiropractic examination at the time of her accident. This could have been prevented and she would have lived a much happier, healthier life.

The chiropractic profession urges a spinal examination by your chiropractor after any auto accident. Insurance companies honor chiropractic claims.

The Paris Air Show

In the eyes of tourists it probably wasn't competitive with the girls at the Lido, but the 27th Paris air show which ended as the war in the Middle East began spotlighted solid evidence of growing international competition in aerospace production and marketing.

The United States recovered from its disappointing reception two years ago when the Soviet Union stole the show with a surprise demonstration of its giant Antonov transport. This year more U. S. firms than ever displayed their wares. The United States for the first time had its own pavilion.

The display at historic LeBourget Airport was in reality an aerospace trade show. Participating nations were competing for technological prestige as well as for sales in the world market. It is gratifying therefore that the U. S. exhibit made a strong impression.

The Soviet Union, in addition to a line of commercial planes showed its three-stage Vostok rocket and the most complete array of unmanned scientific satellites yet displayed in one place.

The Anglo-French technical alliance in addition to being ahead in supersonic transport development also showed aerospace advances which threaten U. S. domination in the free world market.

In light of the competition it was fortunate a decision had been made to encourage the U. S. aerospace industry to put more effort and products into the show. The intensity of the Soviet effort for example was indicated by the approval by the Kremlin of a Madison Avenue technique. Visitors were handed four-color brochures extolling Soviet wares.

Fearful in Strength

Man has been obsessed by fear since the beginning of time. Even in a presumably enlightened age fear motivates the actions of men and nations.

Regardless of whether they are willing to admit it, the peoples of the free world are in great fear of Russia, and have been since the end of World War II. There has been a feeling that eventually a situation will develop that will lead to World War III.

But this is no reason to lose all sense of proportion and surrender the initiative to Russia. Fear has a tendency to invent disaster which, if faced with courage, vanishes in the light of the facts.

The times call for courage, not fear. Fear of the consequences cannot be permitted to determine this country's attitude toward Russia. This nation does not want expanded war, but it must be secure in its own strength, or discover it has no strength.

Story of Two Drop Outs

I've just heard the drop-out story to cap all drop-out stories. It involves a double-barrelled narrative, with two happy endings where even one would have been quite remarkable.

Drop-out Number One was a factory worker from Meriden, Connecticut, named Charlie Byron. He had quit high school before graduation, and had puttered along getting nowhere until the U. S. Army grabbed him at the age of 31. Billeted at Torrey General Hospital in Palm Springs, California, in 1943, with an uninspiring job as an orderly, Charlie started griping one day about his wasted life to a blind, one-armed and fifty per cent deaf patient named Leonard Shelhamer from North Caldwell, New Jersey. Shelhamer, who had been injured while working as a demolition crew member with the 79th Infantry Division at Camp Laguna, Arizona, when a mine blew up, thought it odd that a man with perfect sight and bearing and two good arms should be quarrelling with his fate. "If you think you're bad off," he told Charlie, "what about me? You can read."

The encounter with Shelhamer led to a friendship, and, with some further prodding, Charlie Byron took advantage of his army orderly off-hours to go back to high school. Eventually he was shipped to the China-Burma theatre in the Far Pacific. He took a California high school diploma with him.

The story of Charlie's education didn't stop there. I met him in Washington in 1945, when he came back from the war to marry the girl who happened to be my secretary. Charlie had an idea: he wanted to go in for physical training, but to get the sort of job he wanted in a good school he had first to get a college degree. Four years later he had one, and not satisfied with that, he went on to his master's going back to his home town of Meriden, he found his job as coach and director of physical education in Lincoln Junior High School. He and his wife Rae adopted two children who are not school drop-outs; the son is a junior in college, the daughter is a National Honor student as a high school junior.

I've known Charlie's story for a long time. But the other half of the tale came to light only recently. Charlie often wondered what had happened to his blind, one-armed and partially deaf World War II friend who had encouraged him to go back and get his high school diploma. Tracking him down, Charlie discovered that Shelhamer had become the service officer for the Blinded Veterans of New Jersey. A renewed correspondence followed, and Charlie learned that, where Shelhamer had stimulated him to stop griping and to go back to school, he, in turn, had stimulated Shelhamer to do the same thing. Though badly handicapped by his injuries, Shelhamer had taken a three-year leave of absence from a job with the New Jersey State Employment Agency to get a bachelor's degree from Fairleigh Dickinson University. He also has done graduate work at Rutgers and Seton Hall, and is currently only two subjects short of a master's degree in employer-employee relations.

Recently Charlie Byron and Len Shelhamer traded compliments at an annual convention of the New Jersey Blinded Veterans Association. Charlie had been invited to be the principal speaker, and his subject, unsurprisingly, was "High School Drop-Outs." Pointing to Shelhamer, he said: "This man changed the whole course of my life." After Charlie's speech, Shelhamer remarked that "when I heard the old boy was going through school at the age of 35, I decided to do something about myself."

Thus the double happy ending of the tale of two drop-outs. What it suggests, to me, is that possibly the best way of overcoming the drop-out problem would be to start something called Drop-outs Anonymous. If people can parlay an exchange of alcoholic troubles into giving up drinking, and if the members of Weight Watchers Anonymous can use social evenings to nerve each other up to keep to a strict diet, maybe the drop-outs could find a pattern here. It certainly worked for Charlie Byron and Leonard Shelhamer.

By BENNETT CERF

BLAME Ralph Mayer, of Portland, Oregon, for this one. A traveler in darkest Africa fell grievously ill, and summoned a witch doctor, who examined him carefully, then presented him with a leather thong. "Bite off an inch of this thong every day," he prescribed, "chew it carefully, and at the end of a week you'll be good as new." When he returned a week later, however, the traveler was sicker than ever. The witch doctor demanded, "How come?" The traveler answered weakly, "The thong is ended, but the malady lingers on."

Deep in the Bronx, a bank failed—and its doors were shut to keep out a mob of outraged depositors. One of them mounted a soap box and began screaming, "The electric chair is too good for the crook who runs this bank! They should throw him into Niagara Falls for robbing poor workers of their savings!" A policeman stopped him and asked, "Did you have money in this bank, Brother?" "Listen, officer," replied the orator, "If I had money in this bank, do you think I'd be taking it so lightly?"

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Is it common for a young woman to feel depressed after the birth of a healthy baby when she loves both the child and her husband very dearly?

It is not unusual for a perfectly healthy young woman to develop a sense of depression after the birth of a child. This may occur even in families with a perfectly normal, healthy and happy relationship with the husband.

There have been many technical and complex psychological explanations for this postpartum feeling of depression. Many schools of psychological thought have their own particular pet reasons for it and often make every case fit in their own category.

Rather than get involved in the validity of one school of thought as against another, there is a more important approach to this problem.

Since it occurs so frequently, families too often adopt the attitude that "this too shall pass." This is a real mistake.

If it passes and the young woman breaks out of the despondent mood than all is well. Fortunately, this happens frequently. On the other hand, if the depression becomes more severe and fixed then the family blames itself, and rightfully, for not having done something immediately.

Depression after the birth of a baby must be considered an unwelcome complication. It is different from any physical problem that might have arisen. With this in mind every woman whose depression and misery is not readily controlled should be given the immediate advantage of a consultation with a psychiatrist or psychologist. The guidance they can offer may be by simply opening a new avenue and lead to the relief of this unpleasant complication at a time of great potential happiness.

It might interest you to know, too, that the new baby benefits when the mother is helped to snap out of her depression. Infants often do not thrive when cared for by mothers who are overwhelmed by their own emotional problems.

When is cortisone used for asthma? Why are so many people afraid of it?

Let me first try to explain why so many people are afraid of cortisone and will even refuse to take the drug when it is recommended by their doctor. Many will actually say,

"I'll take anything but don't give me cortisone, I'm scared to death of it."

Cortisone is truly one of the great scientific marvels of this or any other era of medical advancement. Since its discovery, which earned Dr. Philip S. Hench a Nobel Prize, it has revolutionized the thinking and the treatment about many conditions that previously resisted successful control.

Like all new drugs there are always advantages and disadvantages. These are carefully weighed before use. When the need for cortisone is greater than the dangers without it, cortisone is used.

Technically known as adrenocortical steroid, it is used successfully in severe allergy, transfusion reactions, some forms of shock, some eye conditions, various infections and inflammations, arthritis, skin disorders and perhaps another hundred various serious disorders.

Most attacks of asthma respond well to adrenalin and related preparations. When, however, the desperately unpleasant breathing difficulty of asthma remains uncontrolled, cortisone and ACTH bring spectacular relief. Patients are rarely kept on long continued doses of these drugs, but long enough so that the underlying cause of the asthma can be found and controlled.

Cortisone has side-effects. So has aspirin or even common household salt. Yet no one would hesitate to use either if by past experience no unusual reactions had occurred.

You can depend on your doctor's judgment that he would not use a drug that carried with it a great degree of risk, one that is greater than the disease for which he prescribed it. There is no justification for the mystical fears associated with cortisone.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Admiral Hyman Rickover's attack on modern management's tendency to judge the merits of technological goals in terms of cost rather than effectiveness strikes at the core of a very prevalent problem.

Rickover, who heads the nuclear-powered ship program, told members of Congress that America too often was measuring the worth of goals by a cost-effectiveness ratio. Perhaps, he indicated, effectiveness rather than cost should be the main ingredient of the formula.

Since this criticism was aimed chiefly at the Pentagon's management methods it is going to surprise some congressmen who had been convinced the tradition there was one of overspending rather than of ruthless saving.

More important, it points to a much larger difference of opinion, the difference between the researcher and the manager, the difference between the scientist who is goal-oriented and the manager oriented to costs.

Despite the tremendous outpouring of technology in this country — which points to an effective combination of scientific research and productive management — the men in these two endeavors have never completely trusted each other. Each fears that in strained times the other will revert to type: the manager to saving money, the scientist to plowing ahead with research, however costly.

This is just the situation that exists today in many corporations, foundations and other institutions, as well as at efficiency-minded Robert S. McNamara's Pentagon.

Business has, in fact, made a high art of efficiency in this space-age. Efficiency, itself, is neutral; it can mean higher costs, it can mean lower costs. Frequently, low cost and high quality becomes the goal in various efficiency programs, such as Pride in Excellence — Boeing — and Product Excellence Program — Raytheon.

The possibility always exists in these programs, some critics say, that the efficiencies discovered might go more into cutting costs than in further improving the product. That is what Rickover fears.

The latest Rickover outburst came in testimony before a House Defense Appropriations subcommittee, for which he described a new religion — or "fog bomb," as he also called it — that might be keeping the nation from developing technology that would save lives. That religion, or bomb, is the cost-effective approach to goals.

Cost analyses, Rickover said, cannot take account of human life. It is a limited tool, he said, philosophically weak in that it maintains "the economic is fundamental, that all other factors — the social, cultural and political — are derivative."

Such an approach, Rickover indicated, deprives the nation of technological advances that would accrue if research were less restricted. And, in place

We have received many requests for a repeat of this article written several weeks ago.

It concerned severe neck pain, chest and shoulder pains, violent sick headaches, and a feeling of nausea.

The following is just such a case from the files:

A forty-six year old female rushed into a chiropractor's office crying and holding her head exclaiming, "The top of my head is coming off — please do something!"

Emergency treatment was rendered and within a few minutes her head eased for the first time in two weeks.

She had these symptoms, along with neck, shoulder, and arm pains, but nothing seemed to help. And lately, her arm grew numb, and tingled. After an examination and case history, it was revealed, several years ago, she had an auto accident and suffered a whiplash type blow to her cervical spine.

X-rays were immediately taken and several displaced vertebrae (subluxations) in her neck and between her shoulders were found. These misaligned vertebrae compressed spinal nerve trunks, causing her miserable pains. After complete correction of the cause, her symptoms vanished.

This woman suffered unnecessary pain for years because she neglected a chiropractic examination at the time of her accident. This could have been prevented and she would have lived a much happier, healthier life.

The chiropractic profession urges a spinal examination by your chiropractor after any auto accident. Insurance companies honor chiropractic claims.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Warm, humid weather continued over Ohio during the weekend and showers were scarce. High temperatures Sunday were mostly in the upper 80s, although Chillicothe, Findlay and Cleveland reached the low 90s. Nighttime temperatures were also above normal, with readings this morning ranging from 59 at Zanesville to 69 at Dayton.

Little change is forecast in the Ohio weather pattern, with temperatures reaching near 90 today and Tuesday and dropping into the 60s tonight.

Little or no precipitation is expected except for a few isolated afternoon showers which will affect only small areas.

OHIO — Generally sunny, quit warm and humid Tuesday. Fair and warm tonight. Isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers. Low tonight in the 60s.

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly sunny, warm and humid Tuesday. Fair, warm and humid tonight. High Tuesday near 90. Low tonight mid 60s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO—Mostly sunny, warm and humid Tuesday. Fair, warm and humid tonight. High Tuesday near 90. Low tonight mid 60s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO—Tonight fair and mild, low in the 60s. Tuesday partly cloudy, continued warm and humid.

NORTHWEST, NORTHEAST, EAST CENTRAL OHIO—Generally fair, quite warm and humid through Tuesday. Isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers. Low tonight in the 60s.

Ohio Five-Day Forecast

High temperatures Tuesday through Saturday will average in the 80s, lows in the upper 50s and lower 60s. Continued warm and humid till cooler toward the end of the week. Precipitation will total .75 inch or more, with isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers becoming more numerous about midweek but probably ending before the weekend.

Raw Steel Production Is Beginning To Slip As Forecast

CLEVELAND (AP)—Production of raw steel in the nation's mills is beginning to slip, as forecast, Steel Magazine reported Monday.

The metalworking weekly estimated output in the week ended June 10 at 2,290,000 net tons, down 9 per cent from the preceding week's total. Production currently is at the lowest level since the Christmas holidays.

Steel said output so far this year totals about 55.8 million tons, down about 7.7 per cent from the corresponding period in 1966.

A decline in steel usage by the automobile industry has been the principal drag on steel output this year, Steel said, estimating that this one factor accounted for more than 70 per cent in the decline in shipments of finished steel in the first five months.

Despite the shrinkage in its steel consumption, the auto industry continued to be the largest user of steel, taking more than 18 per cent of the total mill movement of finished products, Steel reported.

Mills are looking hopefully to the automakers to start ordering steel for 1968 models. "Little if any, buying remains to be done for the 1967s," Steel said. "As production of 1968s won't reach large volume for at least two months, little more than token orders are expected in July."

"Heavy ordering is expected in August for September delivery," Steel said.

Want Ads
474-3131

"Auto labor peace is all that's needed for a strong steel demand to develop in the fall," the metalworking weekly predicted.

With the slowdown in steel-making, sluggishness persists in the steel scrap market. No marked change in demand is expected until well into the summer months, Steel reported. The magazine's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting grade, a raw material for steelmaking, remained at $26.67 per gross ton last week.

A & P SUPERMARKET ISLAND ROAD

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — His two years on the Supreme Court are long enough to determine whether Justice Abe Fortas is liberal or conservative. No question: he's liberal.

This onetime big-business lawyer, the newest member of the court, is no mouse. He can be tart when he dissents from the others, including the liberals, and their reasoning irritates him.

Last January he was in the minority in a 6-3 decision which said private individuals suing for damages under the law of privacy must prove "knowing or reckless falsity by the publication they claim injured them."

Fortas didn't like this decision. He said: "Perhaps the purpose of the decision is to indicate that this court will place insuperable obstacles in the way of recovery by persons who are injured by reckless and heedless assault provided they are in print, and even though they are totally divorced from fact."

"If so, I should think that the court would cast its decision in constitutional terms."

When Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, a liberal himself, resigned from the nine-man court in 1965 to become U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, he left behind a court evenly divided 4 to 4 between liberals and conservatives.

The labels liberal and conservative mean the positions in which the various justices most consistently line up although there is some occasional switching around, depending on the individual case.

The liberals—now, at the time of Goldberg's departure, and before that—were Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas.

The conservatives—now, then, and before—are Justices Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart and Byron White.

Since the president names the justices, President Johnson had the power in 1965, through the man he named as Goldberg's successor, to decide the course the court would follow in the years ahead.

When he picked his long-time friend and adviser, Fortas, there was some wondering about which side he would join, perhaps because of his big-business connections as a lawyer.

Thus Fortas held the balance of power. He quickly showed he would take the liberal road although, being an individualist like Warren and Brennan, his POSTAL JAM—Frederick E. Batrus (2nd from left), deputy assistant postmaster general for transportation, talks things over after a freak auto mishap. He rolled up the door of an auto elevator in Washington that takes cars to a basement parking lot of the Post Office, accidentally stepped on the accelerator instead of the brake and his car was caught on top of the rising elevator. He jumped to safety, but officials said it may be weeks before the elevator is repaired, and there is no other way for cars to enter or leave area.

How Weather Looks Today

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Official Weather Bureau summary of Ohio's weather:

Warm, humid weather continued over Ohio during the weekend and showers were scarce. High temperatures Sunday were mostly in the upper 80s, although Chillicothe, Findlay and Cleveland reached the low 90s. Nighttime temperatures were also above normal, with readings this morning ranging from 59 at Zanesville to 69 at Dayton.

Little change is forecast in the Ohio weather pattern, with temperatures reaching near 90 today and Tuesday and dropping into the 60s tonight.

Little or no precipitation is expected except for a few isolated afternoon showers which will affect only small areas.

OHIO — Generally sunny, quit warm and humid Tuesday. Fair and warm tonight. Isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers. Low tonight in the 60s.

CENTRAL OHIO — Mostly sunny, warm and humid Tuesday. Fair, warm and humid tonight. High Tuesday near 90. Low tonight mid 60s.

SOUTHEAST OHIO—Mostly sunny, warm and humid Tuesday. Fair, warm and humid tonight. High Tuesday near 90. Low tonight mid 60s.

SOUTHWEST OHIO—Tonight fair and mild, low in the 60s. Tuesday partly cloudy, continued warm and humid.

NORTHWEST, NORTHEAST, EAST CENTRAL OHIO—Generally fair, quite warm and humid through Tuesday. Isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers. Low tonight in the 60s.

Ohio Five-Day Forecast

High temperatures Tuesday through Saturday will average in the 80s, lows in the upper 50s and lower 60s. Continued warm and humid till cooler toward the end of the week. Precipitation will total .75 inch or more, with isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers becoming more numerous about midweek but probably ending before the weekend.

Raw Steel Production Is Beginning To Slip As Forecast

CLEVELAND (AP)—Production of raw steel in the nation's mills is beginning to slip, as forecast, Steel Magazine reported Monday.

The metalworking weekly estimated output in the week ended June 10 at 2,290,000 net tons, down .9 per cent from the preceding week's total. Production currently is at the lowest level since the Christmas holidays.

Steel said output so far this year totals about 55.8 million tons, down about 7.7 per cent from the corresponding period in 1966.

A decline in steel usage by the automobile industry has been the principal drag on steel output this year, Steel said, estimating that this one factor accounted for more than 70 per cent in the decline in shipments of finished steel in the first five months.

Despite the shrinkage in its steel consumption, the auto industry continued to be the largest user of steel, taking more than 18 per cent of the total mill movement of finished products, Steel reported.

Mills are looking hopefully to the automakers to start ordering steel for 1968 models. "Little if any, buying remains to be done for the 1967s," Steel said. "As production of 1968s won't reach large volume for at least two months, little more than token orders are expected in July."

"Heavy ordering is expected in August for September delivery," Steel said.

"Auto labor peace is all that's needed for a strong steel demand to develop in the fall," the metalworking weekly predicted.

With the slowdown in steel-making, sluggishness persists in the steel scrap market. No marked change in demand is expected until well into the summer months, Steel reported. The magazine's price composite on No. 1 heavy melting grade, a raw material for steelmaking, remained at $26.67 per gross ton last week.

A & P SUPERMARKET ISLAND ROAD

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — His two years on the Supreme Court are long enough to determine whether Justice Abe Fortas is liberal or conservative. No question: he's liberal.

This onetime big-business lawyer, the newest member of the court, is no mouse. He can be tart when he dissents from the others, including the liberals, and their reasoning irritates him.

Last January he was in the minority in a 6-3 decision which said private individuals suing for damages under the law of privacy must prove "knowing or reckless falsity by the publication they claim injured them."

Fortas didn't like this decision. He said: "Perhaps the purpose of the decision is to indicate that this court will place insuperable obstacles in the way of recovery by persons who are injured by reckless and heedless assault provided they are in print, and even though they are totally divorced from fact."

"If so, I should think that the court would cast its decision in constitutional terms."

When Justice Arthur J. Goldberg, a liberal himself, resigned from the nine-man court in 1965 to become U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, he left behind a court evenly divided 4 to 4 between liberals and conservatives.

The labels liberal and conservative mean the positions in which the various justices most consistently line up although there is some occasional switching around, depending on the individual case.

The liberals—now, at the time of Goldberg's departure, and before that—are Chief Justice Earl Warren and Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Hugo L. Black and William O. Douglas.

The conservatives—now, then, and before—are Justices Tom C. Clark, John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart and Byron White.

Since the president names the justices, President Johnson had the power in 1965, through the man he named as Goldberg's successor, to decide the course the court would follow in the years ahead.

When he picked his long-time friend and advisor, Fortas, there was some wondering about which side he would join, perhaps because of his big-business connections as a lawyer.

Thus Fortas held the balance of power. He quickly showed he would take the liberal road although, being an individualist like Warren and Brennan, his vote was not always predictable.

Most often he has voted with Warren and Brennan, two consistently liberal justices but not as absolute as Black and Douglas. Sometimes Douglas dissents from Warren, Brennan, Black and Fortas because they are not liberal enough for him.

Sometimes Black does the same although, startlingly enough, as the years pass he seems to join the conservatives far more often than he ever did before. At 81 he is the oldest man on the court.

Fortas, now 56, is 20 years younger than Chief Justice Warren and there has been speculation—true or not is anyone's guess—that Johnson would make him chief justice if Warren retired. This seems years away, for Warren is an unusually vigorous man.

It's seldom that Fortas switches over to the conservatives against the thinking of the other liberal justices.

In some of the major decisions this year, when Fortas was in a minority dissent, it wasn't because he joined the conservatives but because Black did, giving them a majority while Fortas dissented with the remaining liberals: Warren, Brennan, and Douglas.

It has been suggested Fortas has an underlying sympathy for big-business problems before the court. But the record shows he has voted for and against big business.

Teays Valley Summer Band Schedule Set

William Pangburn, director of the Teays Valley Elementary and Junior High School Music Dept., has announced the summer schedule.

Dora Ann Kiser Is Wed To John A. Moss Jr.

MRS. JOHN ALIMON MOSS, JR.

Before an altar decorated with white gladioli, pink roses and daisies, a candlelight service united Miss Dora Ann Kiser and Mr. John Alimon Moss Jr., in marriage.

The Rev. Robert A. Duffy, Chillicothe, performed the double ring ceremony, 7:30 p. m. Saturday, June 10, in the Yellowbud Evangelical United Brethren Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson Kiser, Immell Road, and Mr. Moss is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Moss Sr., Route 2, Circleville.

Presenting a half hour of pre-nuptial music was Paul Dunkle. Selections included "Love Is A Song", "One Heart, One Hand" by Bernstein, "Now Thank We All Our God", "Sing Mir Dein Leid" by Green, "Panis Angelicus" by Franck, "Ave Maria" by Abt, "Trumpet Voluntary in D Major" by Purcell, Oscar Reynold sang "Because", D. Hardeleto; "Climb Every Mountain", Rogers and "The Lord's Prayer", Malotte.

Escorted to the altar by her father to the music of Marcello's "Psalm XIX", the bride wore a gown of white Irish linen, designed along princess lines and featured a rounded neckline with elbow length sleeves. The slim skirt was accented with three deep back ruffles trimmed with Venice lace. The deep square back neckline was accented with two fabric bows.

The veil was a floor length matilla of imported silk illusion edged with rose-point lace. The veil was worn madonna style. Her jewelry included a bracelet belonging to her great-grandmother. She carried a white Bible topped with white roses, English ivy and satin streamers.

Serving the bride as maid of honor was Miss Linda E. Kline, Circleville. Bridesmaids were: Mrs. James V. Hopper, Ashville, sister of the groom and Mrs. Ronald Arledge, Circleville. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Susan Haney, Columbus, cousin of the bride. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore identical gowns of aqua dotted swiss over bridal taffeta.

The full skirts featured floating backs and the sleeveless empire bodices had rounded necklines. The gowns were trimmed with satin ribbon and bows. They wore floor length aqua cage veils that formed court trains. Each carried colonial daisy bouquets.

The junior bridesmaid wore an aqua satin bow in her hair and carried a gathered bouquet of daisies tied with an identical satin ribbon.

Mr. Bill Vaughn Moss, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were: Mr. James Hopper, Ashville; Jeff Douglas Kiser and Marty Doyle Kiser, brothers of the bride.

A lawn reception for two hundred guests was held at the home of the bride's parents, hostesses were: Mrs. Dick Tootle, Mrs. Asa J. Elsea and Miss Terri Hoffines of Circleville; Mrs. Elmer D. Hutchinson, Chillicothe and Miss Anna Feltenstein Williamsport. Miss Kay Ann Kline was in charge of the guest book. Miss Kathi Easter, Circleville and Miss Debbie Kiser, Stoutsville, distributed pastel colored rice bags.

The linen covered bride's table was centered with a five tiered ivory and white wedding cake topped with doves. Two 16-inch candles on the table were encircled with daisies.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Kiser chose a dress of pink crepe, featuring full sleeves. She wore pink accessories and a white carnation corsage. Mrs. Moss, wore a light blue lace dress which also featured long sleeves. She wore black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

For their wedding trip to Washington, D. C. and other places of interest in the east, the new Mrs. Moss selected an aqua sheath dress, black accessories and a white carnation corsage.

The bride is a graduate of Circleville High School and Ohio University, Athens. She is employed by the Circleville Board of Education as an elementary teacher at South Court Street School.

The groom is a graduate of Ashville-Harrison High School. He served two years in the United States Army and is employed by Woolco Department Stores, Columbus.

After their wedding trip the couple will reside in Williamsport.

Some good cooks have been known to add a few drops of salad (not olive) oil to a confectioners sugar glaze for a cake.

Belinda Cox Honored with Bridal Shower

Miss Belinda Cox was honored Wednesday evening at the Church of Christ with a bridal shower.

Games were played by the group and winners were: Mrs. Delbert McKenzie, Mrs. Woodrow Carter and Miss Belinda Cox.

Refreshments of assorted cookies and coffee were served.

Others attending were: Mrs. Jerry Cassill, Mrs. Charles Hemming, Mrs. Alfred Clifton, Miss Leann Gross, Mrs. Lee Gross, Miss Betty Alice McKenzie, Miss Christy Cassill, Miss Ferri Lynn Cassil, Mrs. Hazel Bibler, Mrs. Zola Cox, Daniel Holmes and Mrs. Richard Marshall.

Members are requested to bring tin-type pictures or other old interesting prints.

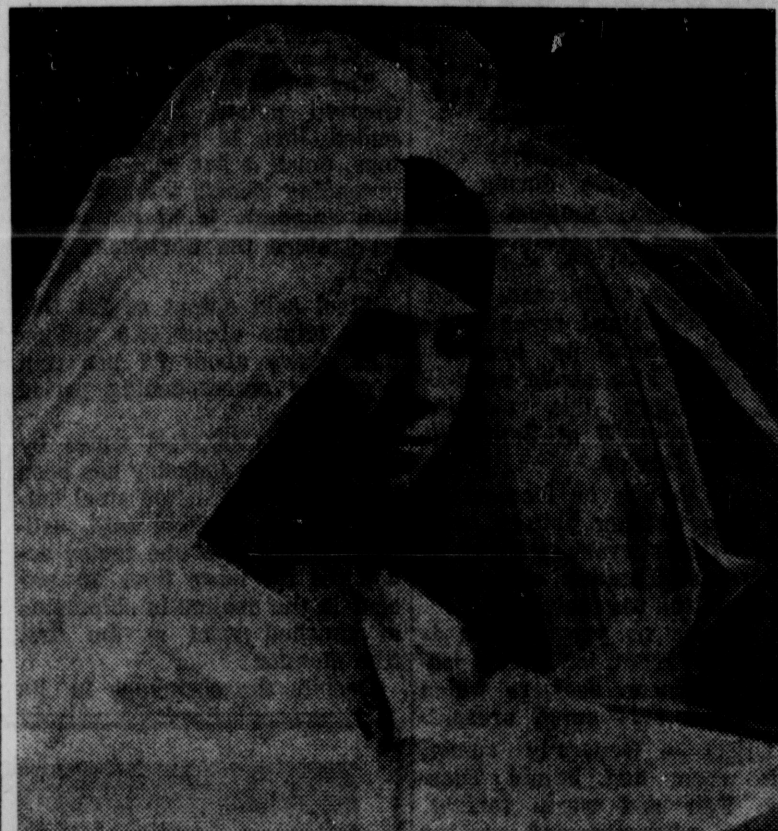

An old-fashioned New England "boiled dinner" often consisted of corned beef, cabbage, carrots, parsnips, potatoes and beets. The beets were cooked separately so that they wouldn't color the other foods; the other vegetables were all added to the kettle in which the corned beef had partly cooked. Nowadays we would still cook the beets separately, but we wouldn't add the cabbage until shortly before the beef and other vegetables were done because modern tastes call for tender-crisp rather than soggy cabbage.

Judith Elbert-John Davis Exchange Wedding Vows

MRS. JOHN TOOTLE DAVIS

Miss Judith Ann Elbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elbert of Wheeling, W. Va., became the bride of John Tootle Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Davis, 120 Montclair Ave., Saturday afternoon June 10.

The single ring ceremony was performed at 2:30 p. m. in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church Wheeling, W. Va. The Rev. Allen H. Wyman, assistant minister at St. Matthews and personal friends of the bride's parents, officiated.

Vases of white roses and summer flowers were placed on the altar. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in her mother's wedding gown of ivory summer slipper satin, fashioned on semi-princess lines. The skirt ended in a court train, the bodice was designed with fullness at the top and smocking at the shoulder seams and at the top of the full puff sleeves that extended to points.

Her full length veil was of silk illusion. She wore her grandmother's cameo necklace and earrings, they once belonged to the wife of the first governor of Ohio. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and ivy.

Mrs. Robert E. Cole, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Jane Benbow, Columbus was bridesmaid.

Both attendants wore street length yellow crepe dresses, made with long, full, sleeves. The sleeves and hemlines were banded with heavy cotton lace, the same color as the dresses. Their short veils extended from headpieces of yellow silk roses.

Dennis Pickens, Circleville, served as best man. Ushers were: James Henriksen, Muskegon, Mich.; David Sigsbee, Ann

Judith Elbert-John Davis Exchange Wedding Vows

Miss Judith Ann Elbert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Elbert of Wheeling, W. Va., became the bride of John Tootle Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray W. Davis, 120 Montclair Ave., Saturday afternoon June 10.

The single ring ceremony was performed at 2:30 p. m. in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church Wheeling, W. Va. The Rev. Allen H. Wyman, assistant minister at St. Matthews and personal friends of the bride's parents, officiated.

Vases of white roses and summer flowers were placed on the altar. White satin bows marked the family pews.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in her mother's wedding gown of ivory summer slipper satin, fashioned on semi-princess lines. The skirt ended in a court train, the bodice was designed with fullness at the top and smocking at the shoulder seams and at the top of the full puff sleeves that extended to points.

Her full length veil was of silk illusion. She wore her grandmother's cameo necklace and earrings, they once belonged to the wife of the first governor of Ohio. She carried a bouquet of yellow roses and ivy.

Mrs. Robert E. Cole, twin sister of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Jane Benbow, Columbus was bridesmaid.

Both attendants wore street length yellow crepe dresses, made with long, full, sleeves. The sleeves and hemlines were banded with heavy cotton lace, the same color as the dresses. Their short veils extended from headpieces of yellow silk roses.

Dennis Pickens, Circleville, served as best man. Ushers were: James Henriksen, Muskegon, Mich.; David Sigbee, Ann Arbor, Mich., and John Adkins, Circleville.

A reception was held in the church social rooms immediately following the ceremony. The bride's color scheme of yellow, green and white was carried out in flowers and table decoration. Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert entertained out-of-town guests with a buffet dinner at their home.

For a wedding trip to Pennsylvania and Michigan, the bride wore a yellow linen suit with sleeveless jacket and A-line skirt. Her white, long sleeved

Educators Cannot Police Students

DEAR ABBY: Maybe I am worrying needlessly, but I can't help it. Our daughter will be a freshman this fall in a co-ed university halfway across the continent. It's considered a fine school, but I understand there is practically no supervision. I mean, they stay in dormitories, and there is a dean of women to talk to, but their hours are very liberal. They can "sign out" for week-ends, and with so many freshman girls, ours will get no special looking after.

We've never had any trouble with our daughter, but with all we hear about pre-marital sex in colleges, we are concerned.

How Proposed Draft Works

EDITOR'S NOTE—Scores of proposed changes in the nation's military draft law have been bandied about in recent months. Now congressional negotiators have reached agreement on a proposed new law expected to win final approval soon. Here, in question and answer form, are details of how the proposed plan would work.

Q. Why the emphasis on 19-year-olds?

A. Combat commanders generally prefer that most of their new recruits be in the younger age brackets, saying they are more adaptable to training. Problems associated with family dependency are less frequent at such ages.

Q. What are the chances of being drafted at age 19?

A. Statistics show that about two of every seven persons now eligible for induction actually are drafted. The Pentagon expects to meet all of its monthly draft requirements from the 19-year-old group and from students whose deferments have ended. An estimated two million males reach age 19 annually.

Q. If a young man isn't drafted at age 19, what are the prospects for being inducted later?

A. If he gets past 19 and world conditions don't get worse, his chances of not being inducted are very good. A new crop of 19-year-olds will go into the eligibility pool ahead of him.

Q. Would 19-year-old fathers or husbands be deferred?

A. Not automatically. Their local draft boards could defer them if extreme hardship would result from induction.

Q. What basic change would the new law make?

A. The major change affects students. The proposed new law would require draft boards to grant deferments upon request for undergraduate students pursuing fulltime courses and meeting their schools' academic and other requirements. The deferment would be a matter of right. The old law left it to the discretion of draft boards and conditioned the deferment on the registrant remaining in the upper half of his class. Satisfactory scholastic standing, rather than high standing, is the new condition.

Q. How long would the deferment last?

A. It would end when the student completed his undergraduate work, left school or reached age 24, whichever comes first. But if he became 24 in the middle of an academic year, he would be allowed to complete the year.

Q. What would happen after a student completes his undergraduate work or becomes 24?

A. He immediately returns to the pool of registrants most likely to be inducted and would remain in that status for one year.

Q. Could such a student get another deferment?

A. The new law says there shall be no further deferment except for extreme hardship. It would be up to his local draft board to decide whether he merits a hardship deferment. Being a husband or father would not give him an automatic deferment.

Q. Does the proposed new student deferment procedure apply only to future students or does it affect those already in school?

A. It would apply to all.

Q. What would happen to a student who becomes 24 before completing his four years of undergraduate work?

A. He would be eligible for immediate induction.

Q. What would happen to a student who becomes 24 before completing his four years of undergraduate work?

How Proposed Draft Works

EDITOR'S NOTE—Scores of proposed changes in the nation's military draft law have been banded about in recent months. Now congressional negotiators have reached agreement on a proposed new law expected to win final approval soon. Here, in question and answer form, are details of how the proposed plan would work.

By ROBERT A. HUNT
WASHINGTON (AP)—The proposed new military draft law Congress is whipping into shape makes it easier for college students to win deferment.

And it permits President Johnson to go ahead with his announced plan to put 19-year-olds at the top of the available manpower pool. The present procedure drafts men in inverse order of age from 25-year-olds on down, but Vietnam war demands have brought the age of inductees down to 19 or 20 in many draft board districts already.

The proposed new law, approved this week by Senate and House conferees, would go into effect for four years starting July 1.

It also provides for a speed-up in settling appeals from local draft board decisions, preserves the virtual autonomy of local draft boards and prohibits the President from changing the present selection system without another law. Johnson had proposed a national lottery plan of random selection.

College students who now must make a case before their local draft board to obtain a deferment—and then stay in the top half of their class to keep the deferment—hereafter would be deferred as a matter of legal right if they request.

And they wouldn't have to maintain a high scholastic standing. They would have to keep up with their classes and meet the academic and other standards of their school.

Here are some of the questions most often asked about the proposed new law and the answers as supplied by congressional draft experts:

Q. Does it make any changes in the present priority categories for induction?

A. No. These priorities are determined by local draft boards under presidential regulations. The President has said top priority for induction will be the 19-year-old group, preceded by students whose temporary deferments have expired. Top priority now are the 25-year-olds.

Q. When would the 19-year-old priority go into effect?

A. Whenever the President orders it. He could change his mind, but Congress has expressed its favor for taking the younger men first.

Q. Why the emphasis on 19-year-olds?

A. Combat commanders generally prefer that most of their new recruits be in the younger age brackets, saying they are more adaptable to training. Problems associated with family dependency are less frequent at such ages.

Q. What are the chances of being drafted at age 19?

A. Statistics show that about two of every seven persons now eligible for induction actually are drafted. The Pentagon expects to meet all of its monthly draft requirements from the 19-year-old group and from students whose deferments have ended. An estimated two million males reach age 19 annually.

Q. If a young man isn't drafted at age 19, what are the prospects for being inducted later?

A. If he gets past 19 and world conditions don't get worse, his chances of not being inducted are very good. A new crop of 19-year-olds will go into the eligibility pool ahead of him.

Q. Would 19-year-old fathers or husbands be deferred?

A. Not automatically. Their local draft boards could defer them if extreme hardship would result from induction.

Q. What basic change would the new law make?

A. The major change affects students. The proposed new law would require draft boards to grant deferments upon request for undergraduate students pursuing fulltime courses and meeting their schools' academic and other requirements. The deferment would be a matter of right. The old law left it to the discretion of draft boards and conditioned the deferment on the registrant remaining in the upper half of his class. Satisfactory scholastic standing, rather than high standing, is the new condition.

Q. How long would the deferment last?

A. It would end when the student completed his undergraduate work, left school or reached age 24, whichever comes first. But if he became 24 in the middle of an academic year, he would be allowed to complete the year.

Q. What would happen after a student completes his undergraduate work or becomes 24?

A. He immediately returns to the pool of registrants most likely to be inducted and would remain in that status for one year.

Q. Could such a student get another deferment?

A. The new law says there shall be no further deferment except for extreme hardship. It would be up to his local draft board to decide whether he merits a hardship deferment. Being a husband or father would not give him an automatic deferment.

Q. Does the proposed new student deferment procedure apply only to future students or does it affect those already in school?

A. It would apply to all.

Q. What would happen to a student who becomes 24 before completing his four years of undergraduate work?

A. He would be eligible for immediate induction.

SPENCER TRACY DEAD AT 67 — Actor Spencer Tracy, 67, one of the greatest box office attractions of all time, died of a heart attack at his home in West Hollywood, Calif., Saturday morning. The two-time Academy Award winner is shown between scenes with his co-star, and longtime friend, actress Katharine Hepburn, on the set of their just completed picture, "Guess Who's Coming to Dinner."

Spencer Tracy an Actor Who Guarded His Privacy

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — His private funeral today is in keeping with Spencer Tracy's way of life.

He was one of the world's most famous figures because of his movie roles, but he preferred seclusion off the screen.

A requiem Mass for the two-time Academy Award winner was scheduled at Immaculate Heart of Mary Roman Catholic church. The services were announced as private, as was the burial at Forest Lawn Memorial Park.

Tracy, who finished his last movie three weeks ago, died of a heart attack Saturday. He was 67. He was alone at the time with a housekeeper in the home he rented from director George Cukor.

The actor's older brother, Carroll, arrived at the house after Tracy had been pronounced dead by Dr. Mitchell D. Covel. Next came the actor's wife, one-time actress Louise Treadwell whom he married in 1923 but was separated from for many years. She was accompanied by their son, John, 42, and their daughter, Suzy, 34.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The late Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, who made three unsuccessful bids for the Republican presidential nomination, was willing to run for vice president with Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952, says Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif.

Murphy said Sunday he was in Eisenhower's convention headquarters in 1952 when word came that Taft would accept second place on the ticket. This was after Eisenhower had beaten Taft for the presidential nomination in a bitter convention battle.

"As it turned out, Gen. Eisenhower had already offered the proposition to Dick Nixon," Murphy said.

Taft died six months after Eisenhower took office.

Murphy reported the incident in urging the Republican party to run its two best candidates for president and vice president in 1968 instead of having them fight each other in the convention.

He appeared on Metro Media's broadcast, "Opinion Washington."

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Republican group says the Johnson administration's proposal to outlaw public and private wiretapping except in national security cases is "a dangerous threat to individual privacy and an unwelcome limitation on law enforcement officials."

The House Republican task force on crime endorsed instead a bill by Rep. William M. McCulloch, R-Ohio, to prohibit wiretapping and electronic eavesdropping except by court-authorized police.

The task force chairman, Rep. Richard H. Poff, R-Va., said "it is illogical to claim that electronic bugging equipment is effective for national security cases but ineffective in cases involving serious and organized crimes, which threaten our local, state and federal governments."

The administration bill is under study by a House Judiciary subcommittee.

WASHINGTON (AP) — There are 6.5 million college students in America and more than half of them are interested in volunteering to live and work among the nation's poor, according to a survey by the Gallup Poll.

The survey results were released by the Office of Economic Opportunity, an antipoverty agency.

"It is something we have believed for some time but this is a scientific survey which confirms it."

New Square Dance Group Composed of Ashville Youths

Twelve second graders from the Ashville area comprise the "L-K Swingers," a group that enjoys performing America's only native dance, the square dance.

John Rowland of the L-K Restaurant is the sponsor and organizer of the group. He explains that the emphasis in teaching the children the dance is put upon the history of the square dance, how it came about, how it has progressed and what it is today.

The Swingers have appeared at a few high school assemblies in their brief one and a half-month existence and are scheduled to present a program at the Fourth of July celebration in Ashville.

In a typical 10-15 minute performance the Swingers convey to the audience what they have learned by dancing one of the original forms and concluding with one of the more modern complicated dances.

COSTUMES worn by the Swingers are patterned in the traditional Western style in colors of the L-K Restaurant, blue and gold. Mothers of the dancers made the costumes.

Current members of the group are Janet Pettibone, Donna Jean Irwin, Joyce Owens, Teresa Irwin, Cindy Lockard, Peggy Myers, Jeff Houser, Scott Rader, Matt Thomas, Joe Russell, Terry Trego and Jimmy Little.

Groups or organizations interested in having the "L-K Swingers" entertain should contact John Rowland at the L-K Restaurant or call 474-7511.

500 Youngsters Turn Out for Fishing Contest

THE BIGGEST — Tim Sines (left), son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sines, 135 Park St., caught the largest fish during the Children's Day fishing contest at Hargus Lake yesterday. The fish was a 7 1/2 inch crappie. Glenn Reeser presents young Sines with his prizes.

An estimated 500 youngsters lined the banks of Hargus Lake at A. W. Marion State Park Sunday participating in the annual Children's Day Fishing contest sponsored by the Pickaway Farmers and Sportsmen Assn.

Cash and merchandise prizes were awarded to the top three winners in three categories—largest fish, smallest fish and largest string of fish.

The largest fish caught during the day was a 7 1/2 inch crappie landed by Tim Sines, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Sines, 135 Park St.

Sines also caught the third largest fish while the second largest was caught by Shirl York of Route 4.

MIKE WILLOUGHBY, 319 S. Scioto St., was the most productive fisherman of the day. He caught a total of 114 fish, mostly blue gills. Brian Dunn of Columbus caught 89 and David Hulse of Route 3 landed 48.

The smallest fish was a 2 3/16 inch blue gill pulled in by Linda Redman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Redman of Stoutsville. Reggie Radcliff, 515 N. Court St. and David Hulse caught fish measuring 2 14/16 inches to tie for second.

Members of the sportsmen club who assisted with registration and recording of the fish were: Mr. and Mrs. Dick Redman, Dave Garrett, Bob Wolfe, Walter Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene (Doc) Owens, Weldon Owens and Terry Kiefer.

Although the turnout was below normal for the occasion, Redman who serves as secretary for the club, reported the organization was well pleased with the event.

The contest is a community service project of the organization and is a part of the county wide fishing competition sponsored each year by the club.

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Newly crowned Buick Open champion Julius Boros faced the problem today that many another golfer has—the little woman thinks he's playing too much golf.

But Mrs. Boros probably won't complain about hubby's showing in the $100,000 Buick Open Sunday. Boros, the old smoothie with the picture swing, won $20,000 first prize in what he considers a tuneup for next week's National Open.

The 47-year-old Mid Pines, N.C., swinger became the first pro on the PGA tour to win three tournaments this year. He previously had pocketed championships in the Citrus Open in Florida and the Phoenix Open.

Boros, who tamed the long, tough Warwick Hill Golf Club in recording his second Buick Open championship, admitted that much of his thought was devoted to this week's National Open a Baltusrol Country Club in New Jersey.

He worked so well that he posted a 69 Sunday—three under par—for a 283 total which left him three strokes up on the field.

Steve Walker Has Best Lap At Speedway

Steve Walker of Laurelville turned the one-third mile oval at Pickaway Speedway in 23.442 Sunday afternoon to post the best qualifying time of the day.

The Figure Eight feature at the speedway was won by Stoney Asbury of Dayton, followed by Larry Speakman, John Fyffe and Ronnie Allen, all of Circleville and Sam Herron of Mechanicsburg.

The oval feature was won by Bobby Jacks of Dayton. Second was Jim Brandenburg of Catalpa, Steve Walker was third and Bob Prewitt of Dayton was fourth.

The first heat of the afternoon's card was won by Edsel French of Chillicothe. Clarence Price, Lancaster, was second and Sam Herron, third.

BOBBY JACKS, in addition to winning the oval feature, won the second and third heats of the day.

In the second heat, Jim Brandenburg was second and Ray Knece of Williamsport was third.

The third heat saw Bob Prewitt of Dayton finishing second and Steve Walker third.

In the consolation race, Darrell Dexter of Dover was the winner. Jim Lanman of Circleville was second and Bill Fabian of Dayton third.

Slo-Pitch League Lead Is Deadlocked

Taylor's Funeral Home of Amanda edged Logan Elm Village, 5-4, Sunday to hand the Villagers their first loss of the season in the Circleville Slo-Pitch Softball League.

The Amanda team and Logan Elm ended the first round of play tied for first place in the league. Both have 9-1 records.

Peppermint Lounge came up with two wins Sunday. They shutout Jaycees, 8-0, and won by forfeit of B Shift.

A forfeit by Knights of Columbus gave CR and DL a 6-3 record in the league.

East Is Hopeful About Coaches All-America Game

ATLANTA (AP) — The East, hoping to rebound from a shellacking by the West in the 1966 Coaches All-America football game, is loaded with talent for the 1967 battle July 8.

Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier, the comeback quarterback at Florida, and quarterback Bob Griese of Purdue head up the East team announced Saturday.

The West was announced a week ago.

Spurrier and Griese, who probably will share quarterbacking duties, will be able to call on some of the nation's top runners in Floyd Little of Syracuse and Nick Eddy of Notre Dame.

Target for the East's passes probably will be end Gene Washington of Michigan State. The West rolled to a 24-7 triumph last year, evening the series at 3-3.

Reds Rebound with Pavletich

Cincinnati and Houston Split Doubleheader

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Houston Astros found a new way to lose a ball game Sunday and the Cincinnati Reds found a super-hot hitter in catcher Don Pavletich.

Pavletich wound up a tremendous personal series against the Astros with a ninth inning pinch grand slam that gave the National League leaders an 8-4 victory in the second game of a doubleheader. He also homered in the first game, won by Houston 7-4.

In the four-game series, Pavletich hit his first three homers of the season, drove in 10 runs and was 7-for-12 at the plate.

Astro Manager Grady Hatton said in disgust after the first grand slam of Pavletich's career beat his team, "If there is a way to lost a game, we'll find it. That's all I've got to say."

The grand slam was off reliever Dan Schneider on a 3-2 pitch and with no outs. Schneider was called in to face Pavletich after Carroll Sembera gave up an infield single to Deron Johnson, bunt singles by Coker and Tommy Helms and a walk to Leo Cardenas that forced in the tying run.

Houston starter Bo Belinski had pretty well checked the Reds. He was relieved in the eighth when Pete Rose's sacrifice fly cut the Astro lead to 4-3.

A relieved Bristol said after the second game comeback, "That was a big game for us." "Bob Lee was the key to the game," Bristol said, pointing out his recently acquired relief pitcher amid the applause for Pavletich. Lee pitched 4 2/3 scoreless innings after the Astros knocked out starter Sammy Ellis with an attack that included homers by Jim Wynn and Bob Aspromonte.

Milt Pappas, the starter and loser in the first game, pitched the last inning of the nightcap and recorded his seventh victory of the season.

The Reds' Bristol was the frustrated manager after the first game. His team had 14 hits off Mike Cuellar, the Houston starter and winner, and two relief pitchers but failed to hit in many clutch situations.

Cleveland Indians Sweep Twinbill from Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Maybe it was because the Kansas City Athletics didn't wear their white shoes. Or maybe it was because the Cleveland Indians just finally came to life.

Whatever the reason, the Indians swept a doubleheader from the Athletics, 12-1 and 3-2, Sunday after losing the first three games of the series and got a total of 23 hits in their first sweep of a twin bill this season.

Because of the mud left by rain Saturday night, the Athletics played in conventional black shoes. Indians Manager Joe Adcock issued a protest against the white shoes in the season opener here, claiming they were distracting to the hitters.

The 15 runs Sunday were 14 more than the Indians had managed to score in 27 previous innings against the Athletics and equaled the total output in their previous six games.

Home runs by Lee Maye, Fred Whitfield and Leon Wagner were key blows in the opener, in which Luis Tiant won his fourth game in five decisions. Tiant went all the way and struck out 11 batters.

Maye's homer was an inside-the-park job, partially made possible by the sloppy condition of the outfield, which gave centerfielder Rick Monday some difficulty in fielding the ball.

A homer by Rocky Colavito broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning of the nightcap. John O'Don-ogue was the winner and now has a 2-1 record.

Colavito's homer was his fourth of the season and 362nd of his career, moving him into 16th place among the all-time home run hitters. He had been tied with Joe DiMaggio, former New York Yankee star, before the blast.

The A's scored in the first inning when Campy Campaneris singled, stole second and came home on catcher Joe Azcue's wild throw. They added their other run in the second on a double by Mike Hershberger and a single by pitcher Paul Lindblad.

Cleveland tied the score with two unearned runs in the fourth. Chuck Hinton walked and Don Demeter doubled. Then with two out, both runners scored when third baseman Danny Cater booted Tony Horton's grounder.

The Indians open a four-game series with the California Angels in Anaheim tonight, with Ed Connolly getting his second start for the Tribe. He will be opposed by Ricky Clark.

Sines also caught the third largest fish while the second largest was caught by Shirl York of Route 4.

MIKE WILLOUGHBY, 319 S. Scioto St., was the most productive fisherman of the day. He caught a total of 114 fish, mostly blue gills. Brian Dunn of Columbus caught 89 and David Hulse of Route 3 landed 48.

The smallest fish was a 2 3/16 inch blue gill pulled in by Linda Redman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dick Redman of Stoutsville. Reggie Radcliff, 515 N. Court St. and David Hulse caught fish measuring 2 14/16 inches to tie for second.

Members of the sportsmen club who assisted with registration and recording of the fish were: Mr. and Mrs. Dick Redman, Dave Garrett, Bob Wolfe, Walter Richards, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene (Doc) Owens, Weldon Owens and Terry Kiefer.

Although the turnout was below normal for the occasion, Redman who serves as secretary for the club, reported the organization was well pleased with the event.

The contest is a community service project of the organization and is a part of the county wide fishing competition sponsored each year by the club.

SPORTS Highlights

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — Newly crowned Buick Open champion Julius Boros faced the problem today that many another golfer has—the little woman thinks he's playing too much golf.

But Mrs. Boros probably won't complain about hubby's showing in the $100,000 Buick Open Sunday. Boros, the old smoothie with the picture swing, won $20,000 first prize in what he considers a tuneup for next week's National Open.

The 47-year-old Mid Pines, N.C., swinger became the first pro on the PGA tour to win three tournaments this year. He previously had pocketed championships in the Citrus Open in Florida and the Phoenix Open.

Boros, who tamed the long, tough Warwick Hill Golf Club in recording his second Buick Open championship, admitted that much of his thought was devoted to this week's National Open at Baltusrol Country Club in New Jersey.

He worked so well that he posted a 69 Sunday—three under par—for a 283 total which left him three strokes up on the field.

Steve Walker Has Best Lap At Speedway

Steve Walker of Laurelville turned the one-third mile oval at Pickaway Speedway in 23.442 Sunday afternoon to post the best qualifying time of the day.

The Figure Eight feature at the speedway was won by Stoney Asbury of Dayton, followed by Larry Speakman, John Fyffe and Ronnie Allen, all of Circleville and Sam Herron of Mechanicsburg.

The oval feature was won by Bobby Jacks of Dayton. Second was Jim Brandenburg of Catalpa, Steve Walker was third and Bob Prewitt of Dayton was fourth.

The first heat of the afternoon's card was won by Edsel French of Chillicothe. Clarence Price, Lancaster, was second and Sam Herron, third.

BOBBY JACKS, in addition to winning the oval feature, won the second and third heats of the day.

In the second heat, Jim Brandenburg was second and Ray Knece of Williamsport was third.

The third heat saw Bob Prewitt of Dayton finishing second and Steve Walker third.

In the consolation race, Darrell Dexter of Dover was the winner. Jim Lanman of Circleville was second and Bill Fabian of Dayton third.

Slo-Pitch League Lead Is Deadlocked

Taylor's Funeral Home of Amanda edged Logan Elm Village, 5-4, Sunday to hand the Villagers their first loss of the season in the Circleville Slo-Pitch Softball League.

The Amanda team and Logan Elm ended the first round of play tied for first place in the league. Both have 9-1 records.

Peppermint Lounge came up with two wins Sunday. They shutout Jaycees, 8-0, and won by forfeit of B Shift.

A forfeit by Knights of Columbus gave CR and DL a 6-3 record in the league.

East Is Hopeful About Coaches All-America Game

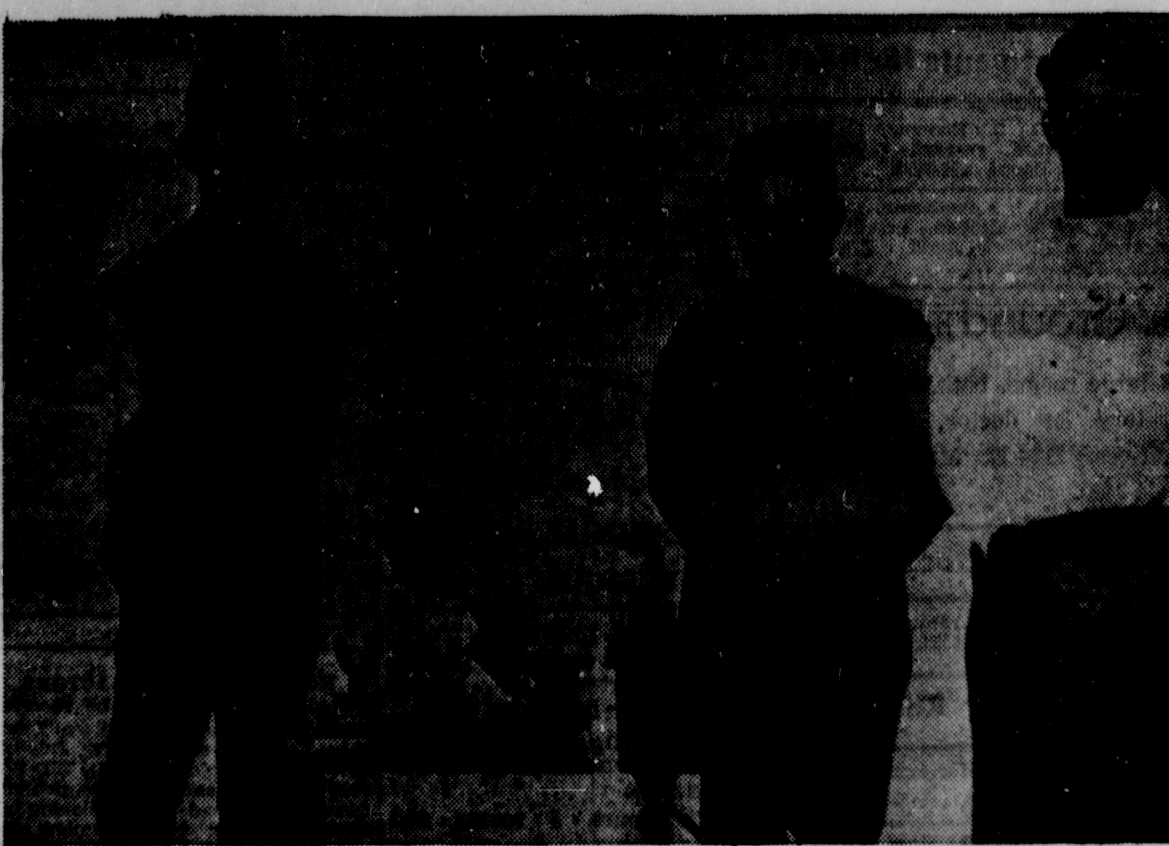

ATLANTA (AP) — The East, hoping to rebound from a shellacking by the West in the 1966 Coaches All-America football game, is loaded with talent for the 1967 battle July 8.

Heisman Trophy winner Steve Spurrier, the comeback quarterback at Florida, and quarterback Bob Griese of Purdue head up the East team announced Saturday.

The West was announced a week ago.

Spurrier and Griese, who probably will share quarterbacking duties, will be able to call on some of the nation's top runners in Floyd Little of Syracuse and Nick Eddy of Notre Dame.

Target for the East's passes probably will be end Gene Washington of Michigan State. The West rolled to a 24-7 triumph last year, evening the series at 3-3.

Reds Rebound with Pavletich

Cincinnati and Houston Split Doubleheader

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Houston Astros found a new way to lose a ball game Sunday and the Cincinnati Reds found a super-hot hitter in catcher Don Pavletich.

Pavletich wound up a tremendous personal series against the Astros with a ninth inning pinch grand slam that gave the National League leaders an 8-4 victory in the second game of a doubleheader. He also homered in the first game, won by Houston 7-4.

In the four-game series, Pavletich hit his first three homers of the season, drove in 10 runs and was 7-for-12 at the plate.

Astro Manager Grady Hatton said in disgust after the first grand slam of Pavletich's career beat his team, "If there is a way to lose a game, we'll find it. That's all I've got to say."

The grand slam was off reliever Dan Schneider on a 3-2 pitch and with no outs. Schneider was called in to face Pavletich after Carroll Sembera gave up an infield single to Deron Johnson, bunt singles by Coker and Tommy Helms and a walk to Leo Cardenas that forced in the tying run.

Houston starter Bo Belinski had pretty well checked the Reds. He was relieved in the eighth when Pete Rose's sacrifice fly cut the Astro lead to 4-3.

A relieved Bristol said after the second game comeback, "That was a big game for us." "Bob Lee was the key to the game," Bristol said, pointing out his recently acquired relief pitcher amid the applause for Pavletich. Lee pitched 4 2/3 scoreless innings after the Astros knocked out starter Sam Ellis with an attack that included homers by Jim Wynn and Bob Aspromonte.

Milt Pappas, the starter and loser in the first game, pitched the last inning of the nightcap and recorded his seventh victory of the season.

The Reds' Bristol was the frustrated manager after the first game. His team had 14 hits off Mike Cuellar, the Houston starter and winner, and two relief pitchers but failed to hit in many clutch situations.

Cleveland Indians Sweep Twinbill from Athletics

KANSAS CITY (AP) — May-be it was because the Kansas City Athletics didn't wear their white shoes. Or maybe it was because the Cleveland Indians just finally came to life.

Whatever the reason, the Indians swept a doubleheader from the Athletics, 12-1 and 3-2, Sunday after losing the first three games of the series and got a total of 23 hits in their first sweep of a twin bill this season.

Because of the mud left by rain Saturday night, the Athletics played in conventional black shoes. Indians Manager Joe Adcock issued a protest against the white shoes in the season opener here, claiming they were distracting to the hitters.

The 15 runs Sunday were 14 more than the Indians had managed to score in 27 previous innings against the Athletics and equaled the total output in their previous six games.

Home runs by Lee Maye, Fred Whitfield and Leon Wagner were key blows in the opener, in which Luis Tiant won his fourth game in five decisions. Tiant went all the way and struck out 11 batters.

Maye's homer was an inside-the-park job, partially made possible by the sloppy condition of the outfield, which gave centerfielder Rick Monday some difficulty in fielding the ball.

A homer by Rocky Colavito broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning of the nightcap. John O'Don-ogue was the winner and now has a 2-1 record.

Colavito's homer was his fourth of the season and 362nd of his career, moving him into 16th place among the all-time home run hitters. He had been tied with Joe DiMaggio, former New York Yankee star, before the blast.

The A's scored in the first inning when Campy Campaneris singled, stole second and came home on catcher Joe Azcue's wild throw. They added their other run in the second on a double by Mike Hershberger and a single by pitcher Paul Lindblad.

Cleveland tied the score with two unearned runs in the fourth. Chuck Hinton walked and Don Demeter doubled. Then with two out, both runners scored when third baseman Danny Cater booted Tony Horton's grounder.

The Indians open a four-game series with the California Angels in Anaheim tonight, with Ed Connolly getting his second start for the Tribe. He will be opposed by Ricky Clark.

Cubs Take Twinbill from Mets

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Adolfo Phillips still takes his share of lumps, but the Chicago Cubs' Panama Flash has stopped running for his life—and started hitting back.

Phillips smashed four homers Sunday, driving in eight runs and leading the suddenly ferocious Cubs to a 5-3, 18-10 doubleheader sweep over the New York Mets.

The fleet outfielder, who set Cub records of 32 stolen bases and 135 strikeouts — and was plunked 12 times by pitchers for another club mark — last season, went down for the count when he tried to steal home in the eighth inning of the opener.

But he bounced back in the nightcap walloping three homers to vault into the National League's top five in both homers (11) and RBI (38).

While Phillips was landing Sunday punches against the Mets, Atlanta slugger Hank Aaron was on the run against San Francisco. Aaron collected four hits — including a pair of infield singles — and stole three bases before scoring the winning run from second on an infield error as the Braves edged the Giants 4-3 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's league leaders dropped the first game of their doubleheader to Houston 7-4, then rebounded on Don Pavletich's grand slam homer for an 8-4 nightcap victory. St. Louis trimmed Los Angeles twice, 3-7 and 7-5, and Philadelphia buried Pittsburgh 14-1 in a single game.

In the American League, Chicago swept New York 2-1 and 3-2; Cleveland took a pair from Kansas City, 12-1 and 3-2; Washington edged Boston 3-7 after losing the opener 4-3; Baltimore downed Minnesota 5-2 before taking the nightcap 10-7 and California beat Detroit 6-4.

Phillips, who started his power spree with a bases-empty homer in the second inning of the opener, tried to duplicate Ted Savage's steal of home in the eighth but was tagged — on the chin — by Mets catcher Bob Taylor. Adolfo lay on the ground for several minutes while the Cubs' trainer waved smelling salts under his nose.

Not long afterward, however, Phillips was back in the swing and his fans in the Wrigley Field bleachers were chanting "Ole Adolfo" again. His successive homers in the third, fifth and sixth innings accounted for seven runs.

Randy Hundley hit two homers, Ron Santo and Ernie Banks one each for the Cubs, while Jerry Grote, Jerry Buchek, Jerry Grobe and Bob Johnson connected for the Mets as the clubs tied the major league record of 11 circuits in one game.

"I'm happy when I make the fans happy," Phillips exclaimed after raising his batting average to .314 with six hits in nine trips to the plate. "I don't try to hit home runs. I just try to meet the ball."

The Braves snapped a 3-3 tie in the 10th when Aaron singled, stole second and flashed home as first baseman Jack Hiatt dropped the throw from third baseman Jim Hart on Denis Menke's roller.

Aaron's hustle enabled left-hander Denny Lemaster, who went the distance, to gain his seventh victory in eight decisions in a duel with loser Juan Marichal, 9-5.

Pavletich's grand slam capped a five-run uprising in the ninth that lifted the Reds past Houston in their nightcap.

Mike Shannon drilled a run-scoring double in the ninth inning of the opener and delivered the deciding run with a fifth-inning single in the second game as St. Louis extended its winning streak to five games.

The Dodgers, whose seven-game losing string is their longest since 1964, battled from behind in the opener, with Jim Lefebvre's three-run homer capping a four-run burst in the ninth. But St. Louis won it on Shannon's double after singles by Roger Maris and Orlando Cepeda.

Maris stroked three hits in the first game and wrapped up the nightcap victory with a seventh-inning homer.

Jim Bunning scattered eight hits while the Phillies bombed four Pittsburgh pitchers for 17. A six-run explosion in the first inning — keyed by Tony Taylor's triple and doubles by Cookie Rojas and Bunning — started the runaway.

Countess Jerri Wins at Downs

Countess Jerri, owned and driven by Emmitt Ebenhack of Route 2, won the fourth race at Scioto Downs Saturday pacing the mile in 2:06 1-5.

Paying $14.20, $4.60 and $3.20, it was the third win in six starts this season for the six-year-old bay mare.

Tonight at Scioto Downs, Jim Mace will be reining the three-year-old trotter Pink Taffy in the sixth race and Forrest Short will be behind Mary K. Creed in the seventh race.

Jim Meeker Repeats at Atomic Track

CHILLICOTHE—Veteran Jim Meeker of Chillicothe picked up his second straight feature victory at Atomic Speedway Saturday night.

In the race marked by six red or yellow flags, the loss of half of the starters and threatened fisticuffs, George Harbour of Ashland, Ky., kept a steady pace for the runner-up finish. Jake Dyke was able to move back to third after going to the tail following his spin in the No. 1 turn. Dyke was the winner of the third heat.

Chuck Fletcher of Columbus had a big night with fast qualifying time of 16:31, victories in the second semi and consi and runner-up in the third heat race. A pileup knocked him out of the slam-bang feature early.

Heavy-footed Larry Brumfield of Apple Grove, W. Va., copped the first heat race and was sidelined for the rest of the night when he drove straight off the No. 3 turn in the wreck-marked second semi.

Leo Saunders of Scottown was the winner of the second heat and Sam Erwin of Portsmouth, subbing for Gib Lawson in No. 37, took the first semi ahead of Meeker.

Cubs Take Twinbill from Mets

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
Adolfo Phillips still takes his share of lumps, but the Chicago Cubs' Panama Flash has stopped running for his life—and started hitting back.

Phillips smashed four homers Sunday, driving in eight runs and leading the suddenly ferocious Cubs to a 5-3, 18-10 double-header sweep over the New York Mets.

The fleet outfielder, who set Cub records of 32 stolen bases and 135 strikeouts — and was plunked 12 times by pitchers for another club mark — last season, went down for the count when he tried to steal home in the eighth inning of the opener.

But he bounced back in the nightcap walloping three homers to vault into the National League's top five in both homers (11) and RBI (38).

While Phillips was landing Sunday punches against the Mets, Atlanta slugger Hank Aaron was on the run against San Francisco. Aaron collected four hits — including a pair of infield singles — and stole three bases before scoring the winning run from second on an infield error as the Braves edged the Giants 4-3 in 10 innings.

Cincinnati's league leaders dropped the first game of their doubleheader to Houston 7-4, then rebounded on Don Pavletich's grand slam homer for an 8-4 nightcap victory. St. Louis trimmed Los Angeles twice, 8-7 and 7-5, and Philadelphia buried Pittsburgh 14-1 in a single game.

In the American League, Chicago swept New York 2-1 and 3-2; Cleveland took a pair from Kansas City, 12-1 and 3-2; Washington edged Boston 8-7 after losing the opener 4-3; Baltimore downed Minnesota 5-2 before taking the nightcap 10-7 and California beat Detroit 6-4.

Phillips, who started his power spree with a bases-empty homer in the second inning of the opener, tried to duplicate Ted Savage's steal of home in the eighth but was tagged — on the chin — by Mets catcher Bob Taylor. Adolfo lay on the ground for several minutes while the Cubs' trainer waved smelling salts under his nose.

Not long afterward, however, Phillips was back in the swing and his fans in the Wrigley Field bleachers were chanting "Ole Adolfo" again. His successive homers in the third, fifth and sixth innings accounted for seven runs.

Randy Hundley hit two homers, Ron Santo and Ernie Banks one each for the Cubs, while Ron Swoboda, Jerry Buchek, Jerry Grote and Bob Johnson connected for the Mets as the clubs tied the major league record of 11 circuits in one game.

"I'm happy when I make the fans happy," Phillips exclaimed after raising his batting average to .314 with six hits in nine trips to the plate. "I don't try to hit home runs. I just try to meet the ball."

The Braves snapped a 3-3 tie in the 10th when Aaron singled, stole second and flashed home as first baseman Jack Hiatt dropped the throw from third baseman Jim Hart on Denis Menke's roller.

Aaron's hustle enabled left-hander Denny Lemaster, who went the distance, to gain his seventh victory in eight decisions in a duel with loser Juan Marichal, 9-5.

Pavletich's grand slam capped a five-run uprising in the ninth that lifted the Reds past Houston in their nightcap.

Nation's Liquor....

Vera officials hope that once derelicts find they are well treated at the center, they will volunteer for treatment.

This would be the nation's first completely voluntary program for commitment of drunks. In St. Louis a similar program is run by police who take drunks to a rehabilitation facility under threat of summons.

Vera is a nonprofit, charitable organization engaging in research and experimental programs in the administration of criminal justice.

James Vorenberg, commission executive director, called the recommendations on drunkenness among the panel's least controversial and "the most doable."

Vorenberg urged communities to incorporate swiftly the commission's recommendations, especially that of removing police from the business of handling drunks.

"It's work that does not make being a policeman very attractive," he told newsmen at a briefing.

And, he added, the commission believes fear of conviction for drunkenness no deterrence since most alcoholics have long arrest records. He said one study reported the average alcoholic had been arrested 58.5 times.

Paul Stephens Graduates At Academy

PAUL R. STEPHENS

A consistent honor roll student, Stephens was elected to Cum Laude, a national scholastic honor society, earlier this spring. He received a letter of commendation in the National Merit Scholarship competition and plans to enter Amherst College in the fall.

Among his numerous activities at the academy were the Akron-Summit Tutorial Project and public speaking. He was vice president of his class in his freshman year and president in the next three years. At the same time he served as class representative on the school council. As a senior, Stephens was one of 16 boys appointed as school prefects.

In sports Stephens was active in soccer and wrestling. Varsity letters in both sports won him membership in the R Club.

At commencement, Stephens was one of four who received Headmaster's Awards. These are presented to boys who have been the greatest assistance to the headmaster and to the school with a minimum of outside direction, and who have shown exceptional competence during their senior year.

H. Chapman Rose, former Under Secretary of the Treasury and a trustee of the Academy, presented the commencement address.

Young Negro Is Governor Of Boys State

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Donald Ray Harris of Sandusky tackles a multitude of administrative chores today in his first full day in office as governor of Buckeye Boys State.

The 17-year-old Harris, a Negro, was swept into office by virtue of a 815-528 vote in balloting Sunday by more than 1,300 high school boys attending the American Legion "school in self government."

Harris, a member of the Nationalist party, defeated his Federalist opponent, Robin Fry of Springfield, for the governorship.

Only one other member of Harris' party won statewide office. Robert Meister of Canton Lehman was elected treasurer over Michael Whitlatch, a Federalist from Columbus.

Gov. James A. Rhodes is scheduled to speak at a Boys State assembly tonight, capping a day in which operations for all city, county and state offices and courts get under way.

Other state office winners in Sunday balloting were: Edward Koller of Cincinnati named lieutenant governor over Nationalist George Mazrakis of Hubbard.

Paul Cook of Columbus elected secretary of state over Andrew Snow, Upper Arlington.

Stephen Wood, Columbus, elected auditor over Guy Leahy, Strongsville.

John Parks, Columbus, named attorney general over Arthur Felts of Hamilton.

Kenneth Spanagel of Parma Heights was chosen chief justice of the Supreme Court, leading a field of five candidates with 344 votes.

Associates justices elected were Terry Tsocheff, Massillon; David Engle, Warren; James Oesch, Youngstown; Michael Littlejohn, Sidney, and William Washington and Bruce Kordic, both of Cleveland.

Appeals court judges elected were George Orphanides, Massillon; Bruce Wick, Warrensville Heights, and Terrance Baehr, Galion.

Small Colleges' Heritage Defended
NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—Action must be taken to preserve the important cultural heritage of the nation's small colleges, says Phil Caldwell Neal, dean of the University of Chicago law school.

Neal told 253 graduating seniors at Muskingum College's 122nd commencement Sunday that "the blandness and standardization that mass-produced education tends to bring about" must be eliminated.

feminine, and they were rigid and self-righteous," Blum noted. He added that "moderate drinkers, compared either to problem drinkers or to abstainers, were better adjusted children, adolescents and adults."

Another report prepared by David J. Pittman, a sociology professor at Washington University in St. Louis, said "excessive drinking of alcoholic beverages is a significant fact in the commission of crimes."

The Pittman study said the closest relationship between drunkenness and criminal behavior involves assaults. The relationship is "especially high for lower-class Negroes and whites," it said.

As children they have indifferent mothers and live in families lacking warmth and understanding, the study said. At the other extreme, "abstainers were lacking in social poise, the males were more

Ohio Legislature Banking Law Revisers Face Fight on Floor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Sponsors of a major bill to revise Ohio banking laws will seek passage of the measure intact tonight despite a threatened floor fight and a new court decision involving certain bank policies.

Navarre, Stark, one sponsor of the Ohio Senate bill, said he saw "no reason to seek changes" in what he called "an agreed bill that would do an effective job for Ohio's banking industry."

The measure is due for action on the Senate floor as the House and Senate head into their 23rd work week. The House called for action on a resolution asking Congress to return a portion of federal income tax collections to the states.

Regular was asked about possible amendments after a long-awaited court decision in Cleveland Friday ruled illegal the practice of voting shares of bank shares held in trust.

He explained that it was not the purpose of the bill to change present law in regard to the voting of trust shares except to provide, after January 1968, guidelines for banks to follow if they decide to adopt the practice.

"Besides, there almost certainly will be an appeal from Friday's decision," Regula said. The floor fight shaped up as a result of an amendment to be offered by Sen. Charles J. Carney D-33 Youngstown requiring banks to permit cumulative voting by minority stockholders. Under Regula's bill, banks may or may not allow such voting.

Carney attempted to have the amendment inserted in the Senate Agriculture and State Agencies Committee but was defeated 5-3. He said he planned to offer it again on the Senate floor.

Numerous other provisions in the bill would change laws to give state-chartered banks a better competitive "break" state banks to engage in such ventures as travel bureaus, revolving credit, and leasing of property at minimum item value of $10,000. Regula said the minimum was an agreed figure to prevent banks from leasing autos and moving into the car rental field.

More important committee hearings were on tap this week as the legislature waited for more information on Ohio's tax needs. The lawmakers already have available a report of the State Tax Study Commission listing alternative sources of new revenue.

But there are reports that they also will receive specific recommendations from the State Supported School Review Committee, the governor's "super committee" which was named to study revenue sources as well as education problems.

Two of the bills up for hearing Wednesday before the House Taxation Committee from 5 to 8 cents a package and the other would increase the sales tax from 3 per cent to 4 per cent.

Regular was asked about possible amendments after a long-awaited court decision in Cleveland Friday ruled illegal the practice of voting shares of bank shares held in trust.

He explained that it was not the purpose of the bill to change present law in regard to the voting of trust shares except to provide, after January 1968, guidelines for banks to follow if they decide to adopt the practice.

"Besides, there almost certainly will be an appeal from Friday's decision," Regula said. The floor fight shaped up as a result of an amendment to be offered by Sen. Charles J. Carney D-33 Youngstown requiring banks to permit cumulative voting by minority stockholders. Under Regula's bill, banks may or may not allow such voting.

Carney attempted to have the amendment inserted in the Senate Agriculture and State Agencies Committee but was defeated 5-3. He said he planned to offer it again on the Senate floor.

Numerous other provisions in the bill would change laws to give state-chartered banks a better competitive "break" state banks to engage in such ventures as travel bureaus, revolving credit, and leasing of property at minimum item value of $10,000. Regula said the minimum was an agreed figure to prevent banks from leasing autos and moving into the car rental field.

More important committee hearings were on tap this week as the legislature waited for more information on Ohio's tax needs. The lawmakers already have available a report of the State Tax Study Commission listing alternative sources of new revenue.

But there are reports that they also will receive specific recommendations from the State Supported School Review Committee, the governor's "super committee" which was named to study revenue sources as well as education problems.

Two of the bills up for hearing Wednesday before the House Taxation Committee from 5 to 8 cents a package and the other would increase the sales tax from 3 per cent to 4 per cent.

Intellectual Critics Discover Horror Movies

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Only in recent times have the intellectual critics of films discovered the horror movie, and it's a pity.

As a longtime fan of movies, I am always alarmed when he highbrow essayists embrace a segment of film history. I enjoyed Chaplin immensely until thinkers waxed eloquent on the profundity of his comedy. Likewise I was an enthusiast for the gaudy musicals of the 1930s until I learned from the priests and priestesses of current taste that such films were camp, an expression that seems out of date after a year or two of currency.

And so it was with trepidation that I approached a new book by Carlos Clarens called "An Illustrated History of the Horror Film."

The volume turned out to be not as illustrated as it is billed—only three inserted sections of photographs. And there are undertones of over-intellectualizing for what was intended to be popular entertainment.

Example: an attempt to prove the "erotic content" of "King Kong."

Clarens writes: "The Makers of 'King Kong' went so far they carried the Beauty-and-the-Beast premise to absurdity—the acute disparity of size between Ann, played by Fay Wray, and Kong puts any erotic rapport completely out of the question. And so, the film jumps to be a substitute gratification in some spectacular sadism and shopping mayhem: Kong vents his frustration by razing the native village and, when really put out, he turns Manhattan into a shambles."

Except for such over-analysis, "An Illustrated History of the Horror Film" is an amazingly thorough and thought-provoking treatise. A film critic and admitted "ghost for more widely recognized writers on the movies," Clarens obviously has an affection for the macabre and far-out.

He admits that "horror" is poor nomenclature for the type of film he writes about. The inadequacy of the horror classification is demonstrated by some of the films he concludes: "The Lodger," "On Borrowed Time," "Destination Moon" and even "Fahrenheit 451" and "Fantastic Voyage."

Nation's Liquor....

Vera officials hope that once derelicts find they are well treated at the center, they will volunteer for treatment.

This would be the nation's first completely voluntary program for commitment of drunks. In St. Louis a similar program is run by police who take drunks to a rehabilitation facility under threat of summons.

Vera is a nonprofit, charitable organization engaging in research and experimental programs in the administration of criminal justice.

James Vorenberg, commission executive director, called the recommendations on drunkenness among the panel's least controversial and "the most doable."

Vorenberg urged communities to incorporate swiftly the commission's recommendations, especially that of removing police from the business of handling drunks.

"It's work that does not make being a policeman very attractive," he told newsmen at a briefing.

And, he added, the commission believes fear of conviction for drunkenness no deterrence since most alcoholics have long arrest records. He said one study reported the average alcoholic had been arrested 58.5 times.

Paul Stephens Graduates At Academy

PAUL R. STEPHENS

A consistent honor roll student, Stephens was elected to Cum Laude, a national scholastic honor society, earlier this spring. He received a letter of commendation in the National Merit Scholarship competition and plans to enter Amherst College in the fall.

Among his numerous activities at the academy were the Akron-Summit Tutorial Project and public speaking. He was vice president of his class in his freshman year and president in the next three years. At the same time he served as class representative on the school council. As a senior, Stephens was one of 16 boys appointed as school prefects.

In sports Stephens was active in soccer and wrestling. Varsity letters in both sports won him membership in the R Club.

At commencement, Stephens was one of four who received Headmaster's Awards. These are presented to boys who have been the greatest assistance to the headmaster and to the school with a minimum of outside direction, and who have shown exceptional competence during their senior year.

H. Chapman Rose, former Under Secretary of the Treasury and a trustee of the Academy, presented the commencement address.

Young Negro Is Governor Of Boys State

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Donald Ray Harris of Sandusky tackles a multitude of administrative chores today in his first full day in office as governor of Buckeye Boys State.

The 17-year-old Harris, a Negro, was swept into office by virtue of a 815-528 vote in balloting Sunday by more than 1,300 high school boys attending the American Legion "school in self government."

Harris, a member of the Nationalist party, defeated his Federalist opponent, Robin Fry of Springfield, for the governorship.

Only one other member of Harris' party won statewide office. Robert Meister of Canton Lehman was elected treasurer over Michael Whittlatch, a Federalist from Columbus.

Gov. James A. Rhodes is scheduled to speak at a Boys State assembly tonight, capping a day in which operations for all city, county and state offices and courts get under way.

Other state office winners in Sunday balloting were: Edward Koller of Cincinnati named lieutenant governor over Nationalist George Mazzarakis of Hubbard.

Paul Cook of Columbus elected secretary of state over Andrew Snow, Upper Arlington.

Stephen Wood, Columbus, elected auditor over Guy Leabky, Strongsville.

John Parks, Columbus, named attorney general over Arthur Felts of Hamilton.

Kenneth Spanagel of Parma Heights was chosen chief justice of the Supreme Court, leading a field of five candidates with 344 votes.

Associates justices elected were Terry Tsocheff, Massillon; David Engle, Warren; James Oesch, Youngstown; Michael Littlejohn, Sidney, and William Washington and Bruce Kordic, both of Cleveland.

Appeals court judges elected were George Orphanides, Massillon; Bruce Wick, Warrensville Heights, and Terrance Baehr, Galion.

Small Colleges' Heritage Defended

NEW CONCORD, Ohio (AP)—Action must be taken to preserve the important cultural heritage of the nation's small colleges, says Phil Caldwell Neal, dean of the University of Chicago law school.

Neal told 253 graduating seniors at Muskingum College's 122nd commencement Sunday that "the blandness and standardization that mass-produced education tends to bring about" must be eliminated.

feminine, and they were rigid and self-righteous," Blum noted.

He added that "moderate drinkers, compared either to problem drinkers or to abstainers, were better adjusted children, adolescents and adults."

Another report prepared by David J. Pittman, a sociology professor at Washington University in St. Louis, said "excessive drinking of alcoholic beverages is a significant fact in the commission of crimes."

The Pittman study said the closest relationship between drunkenness and criminal behavior involves assaults. The relationship is "especially high for lower-class Negroes and whites," it said.

Banking Law Revisers Face Fight on Floor

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Sponsors of a major bill to revise Ohio banking laws will seek passage of the measure intact tonight despite a threatened floor fight and a new court decision involving certain bank policies.

Navarre, Stark, one sponsor of the Ohio Senate bill, said he saw "no reason to seek changes" in what he called "an agreed bill that would do an effective job for Ohio's banking industry."

The measure is due for action on the Senate floor as the House and Senate head into their 23rd work week. The House called for action on a resolution asking Congress to return a portion of federal income tax collections to the states.

Regular was asked about possible amendments after a long-awaited court decision in Cleveland Friday ruled illegal the practice of voting shares of bank shares held in trust.

He explained that it was not the purpose of the bill to change present law in regard to the voting of trust shares except to provide, after January 1968, guidelines for banks to follow if they decide to adopt the practice.

The House Judiciary Committee will begin hearings Thursday on a bill to outlaw capital punishment. An amendment is being prepared for the bill under which persons sentenced to life without a recommendation for mercy would be ineligible for parole. Under present law, they may be paroled after serving 20 years.
